Chamber of Commerce Starts Drive For Initiative Signatures— Gas Workers Active

FIRST SIGNATURES TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE INITIATIVE PETITION GATHERED
BY C. D. A. GRASSE ON FIRST STREET

With the skies weeping great sheets of moisture the chamber of commerce got away promptly this morning as the second entrant in the free-for-all initiative race now in progress in this city. At last accounts the chamber's entrant, bearing the designation, "Street Work by Contract," was running well with its predecessor on the course, labelled "Municipal Gas Plant," some distance ahead on the track. The contest will end when one or the other of the contestants files an initiative petition, containing the names of 3000 registered voters, in the office of City Clerk Flynn.

There was a warming up skirmish for the chamber's entrant Saturday afternoon. The blank initiative petitions were received from the printers and the efforts of the mercury to climb out of the top of the thermometer tube did not deter some of the members from getting out on the warpath after signatures. C. D. A. Grasse gathered one of the earliest signatures on much condemned First street.

Taylor in the Lead

This morning one of the earliest workers after signatures was George H. Taylor, of the C. I. Hood company. Shortly after 10 o'clock Mr. Taylor forwarded a petition bearing a full quota of 82 names to the chamber's rooms. Mr. Taylor's own name led all the rest at the top of the blank. A second petition was promptly started bearing the name of C. I. Hood in the lead. At noon today there were 250 blank petitions either in the hands of or on the way to members who have signified a desire to take part in the drive. Over 300 persons have sent in cards expressing a desire to participate in the hustle for names.

Women Not So Active

The women members of the chamber apparently are not taking as keen an interest in the initiative drive as the men. The blank initiative petitions were received from the printers and the efforts of the mercury to climb out of the top of the thermometer tube did not deter some of the members from getting out on the warpath after signatures. C. D. A. Grasse gathered one of the earliest signatures on much condemned First street.

reported resting more comfortably among the possibilities, it has not yet been definitely determined that such a course will be taken. However, the council will take some action to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Salmon's absence.

SALMON IS RESTING

MORE COMFORTABLY

Commissioner John F. Salmon was reported resting more comfortably and in a slightly improved condition at St. John's hospital this afternoon. He is still rather weak from the results of Thursday evening's automobile crash in Wamesit. Mayor Perry D. Thompson was among the commissioner's visitors this morning and his name said that Mr. Salmon seemed much brighter and in better spirits than on Saturday. He is now able to enjoy natural rest without the aid of sedatives. The other victims of the accident were still at the hospital this afternoon but improvement in their condition was reported.

TRINITY SUNDAY IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Trinity Sunday was observed in all the local Catholic churches yesterday with appropriate services. Especially impressive was the annual May procession in St. Michael's church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The clergy of the parish, members of the Children of Mary and Immaculate Conception parish, parochial school children and altar boys participated in the procession as it moved about the aisles of the church. There was a large congregation present. At the conclusion of the procession, solemn benediction was celebrated by Rev. John J. Shaw, the pastor, assisted by Rev. James F. Lynch and Rev. Thomas J. Heagney. At the 8:30 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church yesterday more than 200 children received their first communion. The girls wore white dresses and the boys dark suits. Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., was the celebrant of the mass.

Next Sunday will be observed as the feast of Corpus Christi and processions will be held in many of the churches.

CHILDREN UNDERWEIGHT

Condition of School Children in Rural Districts is Being Investigated

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, May 23.—A serious condition of undernourishment among children of school age in the rural districts of Massachusetts has been discovered by the state department of health, and is being made the subject of a special investigation by the department.

While the towns thus far studied are all in Berkshire county, the general reputation of that section for healthfulness has caused the department to fear that conditions may be found to be even worse in other parts of the state.

In one group of three towns it was found that of all the children examined only 15 per cent were of normal weight. Sixty-two per cent were less than ten per cent underweight, while 12 per cent were more than ten per cent underweight. Three per cent of the children in these towns were more than 20 per cent overweight.

Most of the troubles of children in these towns, the department attributes to poor teeth and diseased tonsils. It appears that only 15 per cent of the children had sound teeth; seventy-seven per cent were in need of dental care, and eight per cent had received such care.

Twenty per cent of the children had enlarged tonsils, while tonsils had been removed from eight per cent of the children. Fifty-three per cent had enlarged lymphatic glands.

A thorough survey of conditions in Williamstown has been made by the department, and for children generally the results are practically the same as those indicated for the other towns. In Williamstown, however, the department made a special examination of the children who were underweight. It was found that only four per cent of these had sound teeth, while 52 per cent had teeth which urgently needed attention. Thirty-five per cent of these children were found to have enlarged tonsils, eight per cent had enlarged adenoids, and sixteen per cent were suffering from cystitis.

The department points out that the accepted average of undernourished children throughout the country is twenty per cent, and it declares that something must be done to relieve the alarming condition in Massachusetts.

"A 12-year-old girl who weighs thirty pounds less than she should is an alarming problem," the department says. "Yet, instead of having every

"My face broke out with large, red pimples that were very sore. After awhile the pimples got scaly and itched so badly that I had to scratch them. I couldn't sleep at night and my face was awfully disfigured."

"I sent for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them the pimples started to disappear. I bought more, and after using one cake of Soap and one box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Robert Clark, Jr., R. F. D. 2, Branford, Conn., Sept. 18, 1920.

effort made to overcome the cause of her condition, she is too often subjected, in addition to the inevitable strain of adolescence, to the overwhelming additional strain of school life, with its exertion, its confinement, its excitement, hastily snatched breakfasts; cold, unappetizing lunches; and supports often left uneaten because the child is too tired to be hungry.

"What can be done for these seriously undernourished children? First, start with the teeth. Bad teeth are obstacles to wellbeing in several ways. There is constant absorption of bacteria and decaying matter through the tonsils, and through the digestive tract as everything swallowed is contaminated. There is danger of absorption into the blood stream through root abscesses, which are often neglected in children and may cause permanent injury to the heart or kidneys; also rheumatism, as well as infection of the tonsils and lymphatic glands. And, most obvious of all, a child with ailing teeth cannot chew his food properly and, as in the slogan of the dental hygienists, 'the stomach has no teeth,' the digestion and assimilation cannot go on as they should. All these arguments apply as well to the first teeth as to the second. The fact that they must be lost is no good reason for allowing the first set to leave life-long damage behind; and how often are the six-year-old molars, the most important of all the permanent set, allowed to decay under the mistaken impression that they are 'baby teeth.'

The next most obvious defect in these undernourished children is enlarged or diseased tonsils or adenoids. Oxygen is indispensable to health, and it makes no difference whether air is shut out by closed windows or by an obstructed breathing space, anemia, narrow chests, restless sleep, easy fatigue, loss of appetite, and dulled mentality are the consequences. The teeth should first be attended to, and, in some instances, the tonsils, no longer irritated by constant infection, may subside spontaneously. At all events, tonsils should not be removed until such a source of infection of the wound, as decaying teeth, has been eliminated.

The department also sounds a melancholy note as to the conditions found with reference to vaccination. It reports that all the children examined in the western towns, 65 per cent had not been successfully vaccinated. Of those successfully vaccinated, 51 per cent were of foreign parentage, and of a group of ten state wards living in those towns, 50 per cent had been successfully vaccinated.

"It would seem," the department concludes, "that in the event of an epidemic of smallpox only our orphans and our immigrants would survive."

GEN. PERSHING ATTACKED

K. of C. Deputy Charges Religious Prejudice—O'Shaughnessy Speaks

BOSTON, May 23.—General Pershing was charged with spreading religious prejudice last night by William C. Prout, recently elected state deputy of the Knights of Columbus.

In his address to about 550 fourth degree knights at their annual banquet in the Somerset hotel last night, Deputy Prout said that in the published accounts of his speech at a Y.M.C.A. dinner in New York recently, General Pershing had said that the other organizations engaged in war work had been given greater credit than the Y.M.C.A. and that a very great deal of the criticism of the Y.M.C.A. was due to other organizations that had been given more credit than was their due.

Deputy Prout characterized these remarks of the general as religious prejudice propaganda and called upon the knights to fight against such prejudice wherever it lifted its head, whether at the instance of General Pershing or anybody else.

Peter Collins, who has traveled all over the United States in an effort to remove prejudice against the knights, called attention to the fact that the fine American citizenship of Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations during the war, of Chairman Harvey of the shipping board, of Director Ryan of the air service, and of the late Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court had done more than anything else to remove religious prejudice in the United States. He urged the new members to enter into the life of the nation as these distinguished men had.

The American people, said he, understand that the Knights of Columbus do not produce "reds," as some of the universities of our country are doing.

Collector O'Shaughnessy of Rhode Island took occasion in the course of his remarks to attack the recent speech of Colonel Harvey, newly appointed ambassador to England. "I was surprised to find," said he, "that the man who represents this country in England says we went to war to save our own scold hides."

"I happen to know something about why we went to war, because I was in

The correct number of "5s" in the issue of The Sun for May 9, considering advertisements only, was 232. The three winners of cash prizes each found this number and the prizes were

EXCHANGES MAY QUIT UNITED STATES

CHICAGO, May 23.—If the Tinecher bill becomes a law, undoubtedly the grain exchanges of this country will close, and the price-fixing machinery for grain will remove to Winnipeg, Canada, and Liverpool, England.

This is the opinion of Joseph P. Griffin, president of the Chicago board of trade.

"The consuming countries, instead of the producing countries," he added, "will fix the price of grain, and the farmer will suffer."

"During the war the exchanges were blamed for the high price of wheat, and now they are blamed for the low prices."

"Economic conditions alone fix the price of wheat. Europe's call for grain enriched the farmer during the war, but now our customers are in bankruptcy."

"The farmers' condition will not be relieved until in some way we open up the markets of the world for what the farmers have to sell. This may necessitate legislation extending credit to European governments or indemnifying American exporters on foreign credit transactions."

The Tinecher bill, giving the secretary of agriculture arbitrary authority over boards of trade and enabling him to prohibit at his pleasure the conduct of business, to disclose private affairs for public consumption, to enact regulations arbitrary and unreasonable, means the end of these organizations in the United States."

Purpose of Bill

The bills designed to abolish the practice in grain markets of "puts" and "calls," "ups" and "downs," and "indemnities," by leaving a tax of 20 cents a bushel on such transactions.

A similar tax is provided on contracts for future delivery made outside of "contract markets" to be designated by the secretary of agriculture, except when the seller is the actual possessor of the grain.

The bill will "absolutely destroy manipulation," according to Representative Tinecher, republican, Kansas, its author, although it does not abolish what is known to the grain trade as the "legitimate hedge," he said.

The Tinecher bill to curb grain exchanges now in the Illinois legislature, is regarded as much more drastic than the Tinecher bill, but Griffin says there is not much chance of its passing.

Farmers' organizations take the attitude that unrestrained trading in contracts for the future delivery of grain is gambling; that such trading affects prices, to the profit of the "gamblers" and to the loss of both producer and consumer.

They advocate that future trading be so limited as practically to exclude it.

awarded in the order that the entries were received.

It was specifically stated when the rules of the contest were announced that only the figure "23" appearing in paid advertisements would count in the contest. Many contestants failed to confine themselves to advertisements, but counted the "23" in the reading matter as well. This automatically barred their papers for consideration. There was some doubt among many contestants as to whether the time-table of the Boston & Maine railroad counted. This is not a paid advertisement, but owing to the possibility of doubt among the contestants, those who marked the "23" in the time-table were not barred from winning a prize provided they found a sufficient number of "5s" in the advertisements to warrant their papers being given consideration.

BANANA SALAD

This salad should be made in small quantities, for bananas turn dark quickly after exposure to air, and are not attractive. Take six bananas, split and remove pulp carefully. Beat in a cream and add half that quantity of fresh peaches, cut very finely, one tablespoon of lemon juice, three of confectioner's sugar. Refill banana skins and chill before serving.

STOVE LINING

If your stove lining gives out and you have trouble persuading the repair man to fix it, or happen to live far from him, make a paste of equal parts of sifted ashes and table salt. Mix just enough cold water to hold it together well. Apply it evenly, where the breaks are, and leave it over night to harden. This has been known to last two years. The parts should be thoroughly clean before the mixture is applied.

$2500 FIRE IN

MIDDLESEX STREET

A building numbered 511-515 Middlesex street and occupied by Jacob Fox, second hand furniture dealer, and Kotzen's shoe store, was damaged by fire Saturday night to the extent of about $2500. The fire, the cause of which is not known, started in the cellar and was discovered shortly before 11:30 o'clock at which time an alarm was sounded from box 55. When the firemen reached the premises the fire had worked its way to the second floor and was making rapid progress, but its course was quickly checked.

There were two telephone alarms yesterday, the first at 7:55 a. m. for a slight blaze at 153 Andover street and the other at 9 a. m. for a leaking pipe at the stars of the Talbot Clothing Co.

ELASTIC SIDE

Satin slippers are affecting the small piece of elastic at the side that they may fit more snugly over the ankle. Narrow barrettes across the instep are very good and often a semi-transparent elastic glistens on a flat ornament.

DID YOU KNOW—

That if when baking small cakes you fill one of the gem pans with water, the cakes will not burn? That a raw prune put in the coffee urn will give the coffee a good flavor? A sheet of tin foil under the center piece the vase rests on will prevent dampness injuring the finish of the table?

A test of the new way to beautify teeth

This offer is now made almost the world over. It is published in many languages. Millions of people of every race have thus found a way to fight film on teeth.

All careful people owe themselves this test—all who want teeth whiter, safer, cleaner.

That dingy film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Your tooth brush used in old ways leaves much of it intact.

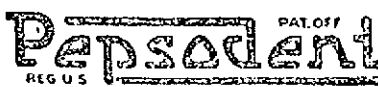

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Teeth not clean

Film-coated teeth are unclean. That is why so many teeth brushed daily discolor and decay. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing, and film is the cause of most of them.

Dental science, therefore, has sought ways to fight the film. Two ways have now been found.

The New-Day Dentifrice

A scientific film combatant, combined with two other modern requisites. Now advised for daily use by leading dentists everywhere. Supplied by druggists in large tubes.

Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a modern tooth paste—Pepsodent. And millions of people now enjoy its benefits.

Acts in 5 ways

Pepsodent does more than combat film. It also fights starch deposits on teeth and acids.

It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling and may otherwise form acids. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Each use brings five effects which modern authorities regard as essential. It is bringing a new dental era.

One week tells

One week will show you what this new method means. It will change all your ideas on teeth cleaning.

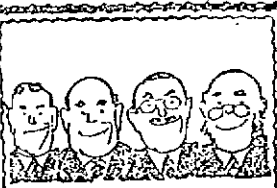

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Judge then what is best for you and yours by what you see and feel. Cut out the coupon now.

Kilbane Explains Plan of Battle
For Championship Jersey Bout

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
Featherweight Champion
What will be Jack Dempsey's plan of battle in his fight with Georges Carpentier?

That is a question that has been asked and will be asked many times. It is a hard one to answer, as plans laid before a fight, especially one of this importance, are generally knocked to pieces before the men have gone very far. Plans of battle are usually laid, or rather made, by one opponent for the other. That is, each must adapt himself to the other's offense and defense when the battle is actually on. It is idle to say before the men step into the ring that Dempsey will do this and that, or that Carpentier will do so, and otherwise. Of course, each has his particular style, or specialty, but circumstances very often alter styles.

How Others Fought

Joe (Gans) was a consistent counterer. Terry McGovern rushed in head down and tried to batter his men down with sheer strength and speed of attack. Jim Corbett hooked and jabbed with his left and did much footwork. Jeffries crouched, boxed cautiously and when the opportunity presented itself did most of his work with a natural left to head or body. Willie Ritchie favored a right to the body and a straight line (not a right cross) to the chin, and so on down the line.

Basing my belief on what I have seen Dempsey and Carpentier do in the past, I believe that Dempsey will rely largely on getting inside, hammering the body with his right and then bringing the left over to the head. He does not see how he can afford to do otherwise. The champion shifts from side to side, while Carpentier steps in and out, using a fast one-two.

Jack Must Fight

If Carpentier does not vary from his style, Dempsey would be foolish to stand off and attempt to box with the Frenchman. He could not catch him with such tactics, his opponent being too fast and smart at this sort of a game. A little pullback and Dempsey would miss, leaving him open for a fine counter.

In his fight with Willard the present champion's best punch was a right smash under the heart, following a fraction of a second later with a sort of a lifted half hook to the jaw, which sent big Jess over for the first knock-down. That is what I expect Dempsey to attempt to do the moment the bell sends them to the ring.

Will Let Jack Lead

What Carpentier will try when he starts also is hard to predict. I believe that he will permit Dempsey to do all the starting, that he will be cautious to the point of creating the belief that he is not much in love with the issue—a little bit afraid, to be perfectly plain and frank.

Speed of hand and foot he undoubtedly has, and as they are his principal assets, unless he has developed something of which we know nothing at this time, they must be his principal stock in trade, with the style of fighting as we have known it when he starts to go. Hey, Listen, Jack!
By Berton Braley

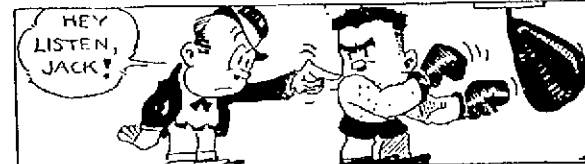

Hey, listen, Jack. I know you're feelin' hearty. An' eatin' well, an' all that sort of stuff. But this here fight won't be no pink tea party. This guy Carpentier is pretty tough. Don't let him fool you with his manners pleasant. He packs a nasty wallop, don't be slack. Or you may get a knockout for a present; Hey, listen, Jack!

Come on, listen, do a little trainin'. Sweat off that grease all' get yerself in trim. Or when the fight is done you'll be explainin' "I guess I underestimated him."

Many a champ has had his head grow blurry. And found himself reeminent on his back. Because he didn't think he had to worry. Hey, listen, Jack!

Hey, listen, Jack! This fight's in the movies. An' you'd better don't give your eyes out. Hey, listen, Jack! What I am tryin' to prove is you gotta work, you gotta watch yer step! Condition counts, in fact I'd say it's vital. An' if you don't reduce that meat you pack, I'll lose my money an' you'll drop your title; Hey, listen, Jack!

by John L. Conlon of Lowell, his friend and adviser, and Captain Nathan L. Smith of Whitthrop, who has acted as his pilot on all of his important swims. Sullivan's first effort to breast the channel's raging seas was made in 1913 when he came within five miles of reaching his objective. Last summer he made two attempts. On his first he came within two and one-half miles of the French coast after being in the water 16 hours and 20 minutes, and on his second trial was only a mile and a half from land when forced to quit on account of intestinal trouble. He has been in the water 15 hours and 39 minutes.

THREE EXTRA INNING
GAMES YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, May 23.—Extra inning contests were fought in three of the six major league games played yesterday. The victors were the Chicago Nationals and the Philadelphia and New York Americans.

Four home runs featured the first contest of the series in which the New York Nationals had hopes of overtaking the Pittsburgh leaders. Each team battled out two circuit clouts and this contest also might have gone into extra innings had not the Giants' defense gone to pieces in the ninth inning.

HIGHLAND DAYLIGHTS WIN

In a bitterly fought game the Highland Daylights defeated the A.L.A. at Ayer yesterday by a score of 1-0. Both teams played all-out ball.

The Daylights' only run came in the eighth with a two-bagger by Smith, followed by Bridgeford's double to right. Dolan and Bridgeford were on the mound for the local team with Armington on the receiving end.

"Bing" Falls of Lowell was on the staff for Ayer.

The Daylights made 5 hits while the Ayer team collected but three. Both teams played errorless ball.

Carpentier Smashes Hopes
Of English Lightweights

BRITISH SCRAPPERS FLOCKED TO PARIS TO MEET CARPENTIER, AS THE FRENCH STAR WAS JUMPING FROM ONE DIVISION TO ANOTHER AS HE TOOK ON WEIGHT, AND GEORGES KNOCKED 'EM OFF AS FAST AS THEY CAME.

BY HAL COCHRAN

CHAPTER 2

On the second meeting between Carpentier and Paul T.H. there was much speculation as to what would happen. The first scrap, over the 40-round route, had been a draw. This time the go was for 10 rounds. Would Carpentier speak up in the shorter route? That's just what he did, and won the decision.

Georges was fast taking on weight and flitting with the feather division. Just previous to graduating he disposed of Pickard and Lampin, via the K. O. route and won on a four from Young Warner. It was the second time he had darkened the lamps of Lampin.

Georges Takes Lacing

Few battles came during the featherweight days. One of the first was a setback, at the hands of Buck Shine, an English fighter. Carpentier took a good licking in 5 rounds.

Following in short order came another defeat when he clashed with Young Snowball, another Englishman. Paul T.H. still a toughener, then made a bid for a third match with Georges. The two fought to a draw.

In 15 rounds. Fighting men whom he had already clashed with, was one of the best little things Carpentier did in the early days. He was always willing to give a man another chance, to fight Carpentier. This Britisher Young Warner followed. T.H. at a tough bird and before the fight Georges, in their first mix, on a foul, and contented another battle would Carpentier got the decision in 8 frames.

Georges then moved into the welterweight class, and won three straight 10-round bouts from Jack Meekins, Sid Stagg and George Colbourne, all Englishmen.

He then was matched to meet his first American opponent. (In the next story Carpentier wins the welterweight crown of France and makes his first trip to London.)

TEXTILE LEAGUE

GAMES SATURDAY

In the Lowell Textile league Saturday, the Massachusetts mills defeated the Appleton mills, 14 to 5, on the first street oval before a large crowd. Peterson and Ganley starred for the winners and Glade and Thoeley for the Appletons.

On the Fair grounds the Hamilton team defeated the Waterhead nine, 20 to 5. Van Zandt pitched a great game for the winners. The Hamiltons got 17 hits.

PLAY GAME OVER

As a result of a hearing on the dispute over a game played May 10 between the Shattuck and the St. Paul's A. A. members of the city juvenile league, it has been ordered that the game be played over, the date of the hearing to be determined by the managers of both teams and the president of the league.

"FLIP" PLAYS PART IN
CARPENTIER'S TRAINING

MANHASSET, N. Y., May 21.—Fame in the world of boxing has come to "Flip," a Belgian police dog owned by Georges Carpentier. "Flip" along with President Harding's "Laddie Boy" and the two dogs of Jack Dempsey has with him for road work at Atlantic City, have entered a contest all their own as to which shall be the first in the public eye until after the championship bout on July 2, when undoubtedly "Laddie Boy" will come back to his position as undisputed chief of American dogdom.

"Flip" will not be permitted a place in the Frenchman's corner when he meets Dempsey, but the dog has already played an important part in the training activities. He has been invaluable to the boxer in willing away the hours and setting up exercises and automobile rides up the training program.

Since the close of the war and much of the time during the conflict, Carpentier has had the dog with him, just as a mascot, just as a friend. He depicted recently as the pair tramped around the large estate on which the camp of the boxer has been established.

LOWELL HIGH WINS
FROM HAVERHILL

Lowell high continued its winning streak in Haverhill Saturday afternoon, defeating the string of "Jacks" high school of that city, 7 to 5. Lowell got away to an early lead and although the St. James' aggregation threatened to catch up, the local team was never headed. Long was on the mound for Lowell and pitched good ball for several innings, but the deadlock was broken by Adams and Nichols finished the game.

BOYLAK, England, May 23.—(By the Associated Press.) A well-known Philadelphia golfer, who injured his knee in a fall downstairs last night, will be unable to play in the amateur golf championship tournament, as his injury will prevent him from walking during the next four days. This has caused keen disappointment among the American contingent.

SH-SH-SH-CARP! THE WIFE BACK IN PARIS

ONE CAN'T HELP BUT TRAIN WHEN ONE SPEAKS FRENCH

By ALICE ROHE

MANHATTAN, May 23.—If Georges Corbett were to enter the ring, and in his latest fashion in pajamas there is no question but that the minute they hit him in the eye, Jack Dempsey would just naturally take the count and "kiss the canvas."

There are, however, merciful laws protecting impressionable prizefighters, so Georges will wear his usual fighting trunks, into whose brevity there has been woven the hairs from his Belgian police dog mascot, M.P. He will—without disappointment—wear the old dinky gray bathrobe with its figured reverse side—for luck!

But all and on mon Dieu! and enough!

If you could only see these clothes—day and night—that the Harry Wall of the prize ring has brought from that gay France!

Owing to the fact that the pugilist "elegant" is traveling light—being here strictly for work—he has only brought 16 suits of clothes (three evening tuxes), four dozen silk shirts, four dozen pairs of silk hose, three dozen neckties, three dozen handkerchiefs, hand-embroidered B. V. D.s, and two dozen pajamas!

In being introduced into the inter-mate riot of Georges "sous-dessous" I could appreciate the sentiments of a police reporter suddenly hurried into an assignment of writing up a June bride's trousseau.

The first impression when the pugilist is introduced is that of gazing upon a very futuristic painting against a background of a combined Aurora Borealis and a pyrotechnic display.

The new pajamas of Georges are cut kumono fashion—the coat! The trousers have darling little cuffs—quite Yale and Harvardish effects. The coats have elaborate collars of plain silk of contrasting color. It was almost on the point of saying (harmonizing) colors. A family sash of this plain silk confines the kimono out, coat at the waist and the garment's pockets are piped with this silk.

Now that is the general plan—if you get me.

The real overpowering effect is the color scheme. These newest pajamas are made of a heavy, soft silk of kaleidoscopic colors. They are so vivid and dazzling that they seem to move.

Turning from the pajamas—reluctantly—my eyes fell upon a most gorgeous dressing robe. Heavy silk with

TORNADO CAUSES DEATH AND RUIN

North New England Swept By Severe Storm—Ship Shed Ripped From Pier

Brick Front of Hotel Falls on Motor Parties—Wires Cut, Houses Blown Down

PORTLAND, May 23.—Carrying death and destruction in its wake, a tornado swept through the interior of Maine yesterday afternoon, widening its path as it went along and expending its force along the coast for an area of 50 miles. Damage to the extent of thousands of dollars was caused by the high wind and lightning. Trees were lifted up by their roots, outbuildings were lifted from their foundations, telephone and telegraph lines were destroyed, cities were left without light or fire alarm protection.

Loves Life in Storm

Earl Lamoline, 17 years old, lost his life in the storm, when the freight and passenger shed of the Casco Bay Steamship company at Doughty's Landing, Long Island, near here, was blown from the pier and into the water. Four persons were carried into the bay with the shed, and Lamoline was drowned before he could be rescued from the water.

The storm first put in its appearance at Waterville. The storm broke suddenly, appearing black against the sky. A funnel-shaped cloud appeared in the sky from the northwest and with crashes of lightning and wind swept through the city and vicinity. Carrying clouds of debris—sticks, limbs, stones—it sent trees to the ground, breaking the smaller saplings off like pipestems. Telephone and telegraph poles were snapped off, and wires were twisted into a mass of debris. Fences were blown flat. Chimneys were scattered. Outbuildings were swept to the ground.

The electric lighting and trolley service were put out of commission; trees blocked streets and smashed the roofs of buildings.

Two steep points of the First Baptist church were sent to the ground. A sleeping porch was lifted from a dwelling, blown clear over the house and set down on a lawn on the opposite side of the street. Awnings were stripped and many of their iron frames broken in two. Plate glass windows on Main street, in the business section were broken.

Building Collapses on Man

From Waterville the storm lifted again, sweeping above the towns in the Kennebec valley. Lightning and wind were rampant in Augusta, but no damage was done. At Auburn the wind sheared trees of limbs and blew debris about, causing some damage. Sweeping on toward the coast, the storm developed its greatest ferocity, constantly widening its path.

At Rumford, near Lewiston, Frank McLane, a resident of the neighborhood was dangerously injured when a building into which he had just stepped for shelter collapsed on top of him. The efforts of 10 men were required to dig him out. He was found to have both legs and one arm broken, and is believed to be suffering from internal injuries.

Reaching Cumberland county, it swept to the east, cutting a path stretching the width of the county and reaching to the coast. Striking the open sea the storm combed towns for a great distance.

WHIST PARTY RESULTS

The whist party conducted recently in Associate Hall by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Searcy for the benefit of St. Jeanne d'Arc chapel in Pawtucketville, netted the sum of $502. This amount has been turned over to the Oblate Fathers of St. Joseph's parish, who are in charge of the chapel and will be devoted toward reducing the debt of the new church, which is $16,241.81. The announcement was made at the high mass in the chapel yesterday by the pastor, Very Rev. E. J. Turcotte, O.M.I., who also acknowledged several gifts, which include statues, a sanctuary lamp, way of the cross and cash. Fr. Turcotte expressed the belief that within a short time the district will be converted into a parish with a permanent pastor.

Knock Out Ended Last International Title Go

By MAX BALTHASAR

Noted Fight Expert

When Jack Dempsey and Georges Corbett meet July 24, it will be the second time that an international battle for the world's championship under Marquis of Queensbury rules has been fought.

The late Charles Mitchell, the great English champion, and Jim Corbett, the first international contest under these rules with the padded mitts.

Two years before his fight with Mitchell the American had won the heavyweight championship of the world in the first contest for the title in which the big gloves were used, and Queensbury rules prevailed, but he took the honors from an American—good old John L.

The fight between Mitchell and Corbett, which took place in Jacksonville, Fla., on Jan. 25, 1914, was won by Corbett by a clean knockout in the third round. It was a grudge affair, if there ever was one.

Grand Game

Bad blood existed between the men almost from the day that Corbett had battered the "Boston Strong Boy" into a state of helplessness in 21 rounds. Mitchell had belittled Corbett's victory, declaring that Sullivan at that time was nothing more than an old man and that any good fighter should have stopped him in a few rounds.

The impetuous and highly-strung Corbett always sensitive to criticism, immediately conceived a violent dislike that soon grew into intense hatred for the Briton and when the latter came to America he was without much difficulty that a match between them was arranged.

Tom Allen, another Englishman, who had won the heavyweight championship under London ring rules, trained Mitchell for the battle.

Corbett had with him the old crowd that conditioned him for the Sullivan fight. When the day arrived both were in wonderful condition, but Mitchell was under the double handicap of more years and fewer points.

Corbett never in an amiable mood before a fight, was in a towering rage at ringtime because of the efforts that had been made to stop the contest. These, however, were unsuccessful.

Upstream Day

Result of Sporting Events by Textile School

The Lowell Textile School alumni welcomed the seniors of that institution in a five-inning baseball contest Saturday morning at the Martin Luther club grounds, by a score of 10-3.

The game was one of the features of "Upstream Day," the big annual outing of the undergrads in former years, and this year the occasion of the first joint outdoor get-together of the "old boys" and the student body. A second baseball clash resulted in victory by the seniors over the faculty, 3-2.

The festivities of the day opened shortly after 10 a. m. when a parade of students, instructors, and alumni swung out into the road from the school grounds and marched through the city streets, business thoroughfares to the Middlesex st. depot, where a special train carried the paraders to the Martin Luther grounds. The student alumni game started things off, and was followed by a group picture of the merry-makers. Dinner was then served and in the course of the meal Milton Washburn, president of the senior class, and the student executive board, presented a loving cup to Professor Lester H. Cushing, head of the language department. The cup, which was suitably engraved, was a testimonial from the undergraduates for Professor Cushing's aid in the progress of "Tech Athletics."

A cricket rush was next in order, and this over the faculty fought in vain to smear the class of 1921 in a baseball mauling. The battery for the seniors was Coach McIntyre and Professor Cushing. The final score was 2 to 2 in favor of the seniors. The double efforts of Charles H. James, president of the institution, who twice smote the ball for hits,

All the hotels with but one exception were open and had a very satisfactory showing of guests. Practically every store on the beach is open and the season is now on in full swing. Chief among the big crowd and his officers handled the heavy and traffic in road shape although the force is smaller this year than last. Tonight the board of trade holds its annual spring banquet at the Hotel Newmark and a good attendance is assured. There is but little doubt that the board will arrange a large number of reduced rate excursions to the beach this season. Prominent members of the board have expressed their hopes that river navigation would again be taken up and that at no distant time excursion steamers would ply between Haverhill and the beach. If this should occur it would mean a great deal for the Black Rock section and compel the installation of some regular and efficient passenger service between that point and the center of the beach at Broadway. It is possible that negotiations which were broken off the year before last with Boston parties for excursion service from the fifth may be resumed when a lower level of steamboat cost and operation expenses are reached.

FOUR CREAM ICE CREAM

Sour cream can be utilized in ice cream. Add 1½ cups of sugar to 1½ cups strained strawberry pulp. Let stand an hour or more. Add 1 quart thick sour cream. Freeze, using 3 parts ice to 1 part pulp.

FOR DAUGHTER

Let little daughter have her own work basket and she will soon be taking pride in the fact that she is learning to sew. Make it as pretty as possible but not costly—a small discarded doll is a good foundation for the pin cushion.

FOR BAKING

Bread and biscuits rise best in a moderately cool place. If too cold they are liable to be heavy and if too warm to be sour.

A champion never has a long losing streak. He loses once and that's the end of him.

FLIPPETY-FLAP PHONES

"IS THAT YOU, YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS?" ASKED FLIPPETY-FLAP

"Ting-a-Ling-a-Ling" rang Flippety Flap on the telephone he took out of his shoe.

"Hello, Long Distance, please give me the fairy queen," said he.

"What's he doing?" whispered the warthog to Nancey, while Flippety-Flap waited for the fairy queen to answer.

"He's talking across the ocean to fairyland," answered Nancey.

"Ocean? What's the ocean?" went on the warthog. "And fairyland?"

But Flippety-Flap was talking again and Nancey said it was impolite to speak when someone was phoning, but that she'd tell him some time again.

The warthog did a back somersault as he had a habit of doing, and said he was sorry, and commanded the council of creatures to be quiet, too, until Flippety-Flap had finished.

"Is that you, Your Royal Highness?" asked Flippety-Flap. "Yes, we got here all right. No, we haven't got any Tag Tiger yet, but we're going to soon without a doubt. Will you please tell the circus people to have a big cage ready with the door wide open, and to face it this way. We may need it in a hurry. Yes, that's all, thank you. Goodbye."

"Now, then, folks!" he cried, putting away his telephone and rubbing his hands together in a business-like way.

"Let's get busy. Nick and Nancey, you go and bring me a peck of nice round peppercorns. And I want the rest of you to come along with me and show me where each one of you lives."

"But our homes are a secret!" protested the mongoose.

"I'll bet Tag Tiger knows the street and number of every one of you!" accused Flippety-Flap. "Secret, indeed! Do you wish me to help you or do you not?"

"Alright, O!" nodded the fairyman. "Now you twins be off, and meet me here in an hour."

Mothers! Give The Little Ones Syrup Pepsin

They like Dr. Caldwell's, and it quickly relieves their constipation and headaches.

BEGIN to teach the child regular daily elimination as young as possible, and much constipation will be avoided later in life. The most convenient hour throughout life is immediately upon arising. It does not then interfere with play, school or work.

When in spite of your efforts a member of the family becomes constipated, give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the size dose directed on the bottle. It is a mild, gentle laxative safe for young babies; effective for grownups. It is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, and most economical as a sixty cent bottle will last you many months.

For your information, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. Look on it as a good family friend, useful to relieve constipation and symptoms like headache, biliousness, colds, fever, bad breath, loss of appetite and sleep. It is no exaggeration to say that millions of families are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It safeguards their health.

TRY IT FREE

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 513 Washington Street, Monicello, Illinois. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN RESCUED IN SWAMP

PITTSFIELD, May 23.—Mrs. Mary Crossin of Dalton and her 8-year-old son and 6-year-old daughter were rescued late last night with difficulty by police from the treacherous Burbank swamp, into which they had wandered in search of a short cut to the home of a friend.

Officers were obliged to fashion an improvised raft from a barn door to reach the exhausted woman, who was struggling aimlessly about in the deep mud, carrying her two children. The swamp is impassable, except in winter, when it is frozen.

UNDERGARMENTS

A very bright red, christened Pail Matt coat, has made its appearance in undergarments. These are worn, of course, with dark clothes and give the woman who wishes to be conservative as to exteriors an opportunity to vent her love for something bright.

The United States department of agriculture is experimenting with a tree which gives off a peculiar poison fatal to flies. If the experiments prove a success, the seeds may be distributed throughout the country to exterminate the pests.

A. F. OF L. PLANS TO EXTEND MEMBERSHIP

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The American Federation of Labor is about to launch an intensive organizing campaign. President Samuel Gompers announced last night in a statement which said that "the message of trade unionism will be carried to every corner of the land to the limit of our power."

"Its encouragement and protection will be offered to the workers everywhere," he declared. "Immediately following the Denver convention next month, it is my purpose to visit a number of cities to encourage the organization to join our movement."

Coupled with the announcement was an assertion by Mr. Gompers that "confession that the 'open shop' campaign has proved a failure was made public May 16 at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers held in New York."

MANY KILLED IN OUTBREAK

British Troops Rush to Alexandria, Egypt, to Quell Disorders

Natives Attack Europeans Following Killing of Native By a Greek

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Five Europeans were killed and 12 wounded in rioting here last night, and this morning, it was announced today. The police casualties were not given out.

British Troops in Charge
LONDON, May 23.—Many persons are reported to have been killed in an outbreak in Alexandria, Egypt, where natives attacked Europeans, says a Reuters' despatch from that city.

British troops have arrived and taken charge of the town.

It is rumored that the outbreak began with the killing of a native by a Greek, which led to attacks by natives and students on Greeks and other Europeans.

Ambulances were busy all night, taking the wounded to hospitals. Many fires were started and in one district, it was reported several persons were burned alive.

During the night, smashed windows for hours and this morning all business establishments are closed.

Before the arrival of the soldiers early today, Europeans had gathered at the government offices, demanding protection or permission to protect themselves. They greeted the troops with great enthusiasm.

Many Dead in Streets
A despatch from Cairo to the Exchange Telegraph Co. reports many dead lying in the streets, and that Europeans were drenched with petrol and burned in the streets. Last evening, some benzine stores near the Alexandria docks were ransacked.

A band of 1500 armed Bedouins, says the Cairo message, is advancing on Ramleh, five miles northeast of Alexandria, to participate in a general revolution, which, but for the presence of the British, may succeed. Many telephone lines have been cut.

Cairo, adds the message, is in an excited state, but no disorders have developed there.

"We have seven in our family," said Mr. E. D. Willard, "and after we had the flu we were all left with coughs and our lungs were very weak. We took Father John's Medicine and found that it did us the world of good, and we have taken it ever since. Our children have gained in weight and we have got rid of the coughs. I believe that Father John's Medicine has put us on our feet and you can judge for yourself by looking at the most healthy family in Albany. OF Baby Pearl Paquette, who died May 23, 1915.
A precious one from us has gone.
The voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our hearts.

DR. CHARLES VALCOUR OF NASHUA, DEAD

NASHUA, N. H., May 23.—Dr. Charles Valcour, member of the board of education and the largest man physically in the city, died yesterday, aged 48 years, following an illness of nine months. He was a member of the Edwin Forrest club of Boston, Amoskeag Veterans, Club Joliet of Manchester and Nashua lodge of Elks, and one of the founders of the Nashua Aerle of Eagles.

Dr. Valcour, big in body, was also big in heart, being one of the most generous in the city and a man with a wide circle of personal friends as was shown in his contest for a seat in the board of education at the city election. He was the second member of the board to die this year.

During the epidemic of grip a few years ago Dr. Valcour probably gained the greatest reputation in the city as a physician, as he was able to cope with it and calls for his services were continuous.

He was a most companionable man. Having one of the best bass voices in the city he had many times appeared in concerts and for numerous causes, delighting with his fine knowledge of music. He was a member of the Edwin Forrest club of Boston, in all he was a popular member, doing more than his share to make them popular.

He was born at this city, always at home, October 3, 1872, son of the late Louis and Malvina Reaumur Valcour. He graduated from the Nashua high school, class of 1891, Ottawa university, 1892, and Baltimore medical college, April, 1895. He at once on May, 1895 began practice in this city and had continued here ever since.

He was a member of Infant Jesus parish from where the funeral will be held Tuesday morning. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. M. C. Manchester of Chicago, Ill., Misses Elsie C. and Josephine and one brother, Joseph V. Valcour of this city.

The dentist lives from hand to mouth, the prizefighter from hand to jaw.

CAMP FIRE MAGIC

List to the Call of Mother Nature

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING
You're feeling the lure of it.
Your eyes a dozen times a day seek the hazy lines toward the west. The heart of you goes out to those paths where, in spring, you gathered apple blossoms and dogwood and which you know are bordered now by cool, green recesses, destined by Mother Nature for camp fires and little groups of congenial people.

Then take your week, your day or even your half-day and know the joy, without which no summer is complete—the magic of camp fire.

Automobiles are all right for the camping party, but there is something about getting out the interurban car and threading your way through the woodlands, that tries and cushions cannot give.

Looking is sometimes the bigness of the camp. But it should not be, for the beautiful and tempting foods and life in the open belong together.

Baked potatoes are the old standby. And to make sure that you get them out of the fire before they are burned and without burning your hands, take along some wire with one sharp end and string your potatoes on it.bury them in the coals and be sure that the ends of the wire are free of the flame so you can lift the string of potatoes out when baked.

Baking
From their dressing of leaves you'll almost believe that corn-meal ash cakes were an invention of Mother Eve. There's an air of the primitive about them. Scald a quart of corn-meal, add to it a teaspoon of salt and a tablespoon of melted fat and cold water enough to make a soft dough. Mold into flat round cakes and lay on in groups of maple leaves and lay on hot coals to bake. When finished strip off the leaves and eat hot, with butter.

A delicious way to prepare fresh fish on a camping trip is to cook it on a plank. The plank should be two or three feet long, two or three inches thick and wider than the widest fish. It should be soaked in water in front of a bed of coals and heated well. The cleaned fish, split down the back, should be opened and tacked to the plank, skin side down. During the cooking process it should be basted frequently with any kind of basting substance on hand. When the fish flakes if tried with a fork, take it away from the coals, pluck and all, butter it, season it and serve on the plank.

For Slicing
To slice hard boiled eggs sharply heat your knife in hot water and do not dry it, before you slash it quickly through the egg.

THE TIMES correspondent declares there is every sign that the Germans have the resources of the regular army at their disposal.

He adds that the Germans have been making preparations for the past fortnight and that indications point to a determined effort on their part to recover possession of Upper Silesia from the Poles.

The movement is regarded by the Times' correspondent as far more serious than a mere reaction of the German population against the insurgents. He asserts that the inter-allied commission was unable to prevent the outbreak of fighting and is now just as powerless to intervene.

The Polish insurgents, according to the despatch, have been steadily consolidating their position and extending their control over the industrial districts of Silesia. They are reported to have succeeded in starting work again in mines, foundries and factories, and are now seizing the allied authorities out of the towns they still occupy in order to complete their hold on the railway between Katowitz and Gliwits. Every sort of pressure is being employed to compel the surrender of these two important towns. No food is being allowed to enter them, and the Times' correspondent, but, as this has not proved effective, the inter-allied controllers, according to the despatch, have asked the Germans to exercise control over the northern and western parts of the plebiscite area. The frontier between Silesia and Germany has virtually ceased to exist, he says.

GERMANS HUNT INSURGENTS
LONDON, May 23.—Germans Saturday drove the Polish insurgents in Silesia back toward Gross-Strehlitz for a distance of five miles, says a despatch to the London Times from Oppeln.

The Times correspondent declares there is every sign that the Germans have the resources of the regular army at their disposal.

He adds that the Germans have been making preparations for the past fortnight and that indications point to a determined effort on their part to recover possession of Upper Silesia from the Poles.

the more momentous when it was announced that the chief executive would participate in ceremonies to honor the more than 3000 war dead whose bodies are at Hoboken.

Arrangements for this event were made by wireless by the American Legion as the Mayflower steamed along the coast between Washington and Hoboken. Soon after guns of the destroyer fleet anchored in the Hudson river boomed a welcome to the president, bells throughout the city tolled in honor of the fallen heroes. All flags were at half-mast.

F. W. Galbraith, national commander of the Legion, awaited the arrival of the president with automobiles to take the party to 23rd street, and embark upon a ferry for the army pier in Hoboken. Upon his return from Hoboken the president will go to the Hotel Astor, where he will address the Academy of Political Science at 10 o'clock. From there he will go to Brooklyn, to review the 23rd Infantry regiment at its armory. He will deliver a brief address there and return to the Hotel Commodore to be serenaded by a boys' band of 500 pieces.

A reception will be held by the president and Vice President Coolidge at the hotel between 7 and 8 o'clock and then New York's distinguished guest will deliver his main address of the day at a banquet celebrating the 125th anniversary of the New York Commercial. The vice-president will also speak at this time.

The presidential party will return to the Mayflower immediately after the banquet and the little craft will put out to sea again, headed for Washington.

In the party aboard the Mayflower are Mrs. Harding, Secretary and Mrs. Weeks, Secretary, Fall, Senator and Mrs. Knox, Senator and Mrs. Sen. Charles E. Sawyer, physician to the president; George B. Christian, secretary to the president, and Carmel Thompson of Cleveland.

Former President Menocal of Cuba, who arrived here yesterday, will stand beside President Harding at the review of troops in Brooklyn.

WILL HAVE TO GIVE UP HER POSITION
Miss Mary Lynch, who has been a nurse in the local health department for the past several years, will have to give up her position, according to notification which has been received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson from the civil service commission. Miss Lynch was appointed provisionally until a list of eligibles should become available and inasmuch as she is not a citizen of this country, her name has not been placed on the eligible list. She has taken out her first papers and served as a United States army nurse during the world war, but these facts have not had any influence on the commission in its action in disqualifying her.

The commission has forwarded Mayor Thompson a list of eligibles from which he is to make his appointment of Miss Lynch's successor. The list follows:

Margaret M. Courtney, 22 Ash st.
Alice I. Gorman, 60 Walker st.
Grace M. Carroll, 55 Claire st.
Margaret V. Craig, 55 Barter st.
Mabel B. Greene, 17 Ash st.

PARKS WELL PATRONIZED
The various parks and commons of the city were crowded to capacity yesterday, because of the warm weather. The first real hot spell of the season sent thousands of men, women and children to the open spaces in search of relief from the oppressive humidity. Sup. John W. Kernan of the park department, says that he has rarely seen a larger crowd on Fort Hill park than was there yesterday. The zone on the slope of the hill contained a record number of visitors.

OUTDOOR MOVIE SEASON
July 12 has been set as the date for the opening of the outdoor movie season in Lowell. Beginning on that date and continuing for eight weeks, movies will be shown three nights each week under the auspices of the park department. The North and South commons will each have one show every week and will be held on various other parks of the city. The films are to be supplied by Walter J. Nelson of the Merrimack Square Theatre.

Commerce Chamber Starts Drive For Initiative Signatures Gas Workers Active

FIRST SIGNATURES TO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE INITIATIVE PETITION GATHERED
BY C. D. A. GRASSE ON FIRST STREET

With the skies weeping great sheets of moisture the chamber of commerce got away promptly this morning as the second entrant in the free-for-all initiative race now in progress in this city. At last accounts the chamber's entrant, bearing the designation, "Street Work by Contract," was running well with its predecessor on the course, labelled "Municipal Gas Plant," some distance ahead on the track. The contest will end when one or the other of the contestants files an initiative petition, containing the names of 3000 registered voters, in the office of City Clerk Flynn.

There was a warming up skirmish

for the chamber's entrant Saturday afternoon. The blank initiative petitions were received from the printers and the efforts of the mercury to climb out of the top of the thermometer tube did not deter some of the members from getting out on the warpath after signatures. C. D. A. Grasse gathered one of the earliest signatures on much condemned First street.

Taylor in the Lead

This morning one of the earliest workers after signatures was George H. Taylor, of the C. I. Hood company. Shortly after 10 o'clock Mr. Taylor forwarded a petition bearing a full quota of 82 names to the chamber's rooms. Mr. Taylor's own name led all the rest at the top of the blank. A second petition was promptly started bearing the name of C. I. Hood in the lead.

At noon today there were 250 blank petitions either in the hands or on the way to members who have signed a desire to take part in the drive. Over 300 persons have sent in cards expressing a desire to participate in the hustle for names.

The women members of the chamber apparently are not taking as keen an

CENTRAL BRIDGE

Traffic Closing Conference to Be Held Tomorrow

A conference relative to the proposed closing of Central bridge to street car traffic during a portion of the period of its strengthening and reconstruction by the Engineering Service and Construction Co. of Boston will be held at city hall tomorrow, at which city officials will endeavor to persuade the Boston firm to keep at least one set of rails open at all times.

The conference was to have been held at 11.30 this forenoon in the mayor's reception room, but owing to the absence of City Engineer Kearney, who had not been notified that it was to take place, discussion was postponed until tomorrow. At that time it is hoped to have representatives of the construction firm, the city engineer, the city solicitor, the mayor and possibly Prof. L. E. Moore, the consulting engineer who helped draw the plans and specifications for the reconstruction of the bridge.

TO THE B. V. D.'s AND BACK AGAIN

After flirting with the nineties yesterday, and giving omen of a hot night last night, and a no less hot day today, Old Man Weather deluged Lowell with rain in the small hours, and the pelting continued until nearly midday, when the sun offered indications of coming out. Shortly after noon, however, the mercury in the thermometer at Merrimack square was slightly below 60, and the public was walking with buttoned rather than the widely flung coats which had resulted from the sweltering heat of yesterday.

SALMON IS RESTING MORE COMFORTABLY

Commissioner John F. Salmon was reported resting more comfortably and in a slightly improved condition at St. John's hospital this afternoon. He is still rather weak from the results of Thursday evening's automobile crash in Wamesit. Mayor Perry D. Thompson was among the commissioner's visitors this morning and Mr. Honer said that Mr. Salmon seemed much brighter and in better spirits than on Saturday. He is now able to enjoy natural rest without the aid of sedatives.

The other victims of the accident were still at the hospital this afternoon but improvement in their condition was reported.

COGNAC FUNERAL TODAY

Final Services for Victim of Wamesit Crash at St. Jean Baptiste Church

The funeral of Wilfred C. O'Sullivan, Alphonse Couture, Henry L. Turcotte, Arthur Turcotte, Fred Gregoire, Frank Primeau and Herve L. Parthenais.

The various social and fraternal organizations with which the deceased was associated were represented at the funeral by delegations. The C.M.A.C. was represented by Dr. George E. Caisse, Arthur J. Eno, J. P. Montminy and Frank Ricard. The Lowell lodge of Elks was represented by John T. Sparks, John Dwyer, Sephrin Normandin, James E. Donnelly, Wilfred P. C. Caisse and Gerge Legrand. The Washington club delegation included Thos. F. Kelley, Charles P. McKenzie, Thos. F. Becharé and Dr. Timothy Reardon. The board of directors of the Canbec Fire Extinguisher Co. was represented by Joseph Cayouette, Hermidas Germain, Henry O. Girard and Adolphe Lamontagne.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery where committal prayers were read by Rev. Joseph Bolduc, O.M.I. There were many beautiful floral offerings and many spiritual offerings. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Albert J. Blazon under the general direction of Undertakers Archambault & Sons.

NEW SCHEDULE OF FARES

Fare Reduction on Street Rail- way to Become Operative Next Wednesday

The new schedule of fares for the Lowell district of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. granted by the public trustees following a wage reduction of 12½ per cent for the company's employees, will go into effect next Wednesday morning, it was announced by Manager Lees this afternoon.

The new rate will give patrons of this district 51 tickets good for 15 rides and a five-cent rebate. At the present time the 51 tickets are good for 13 rides and eight-cent rebate. The new tickets will be on sale by all conductors and at the office of the railway company in Prescott street Wednesday morning. Straight cash fares will remain at 10 cents.

Persons who have rides left on the old tickets are advised not to redeem them until they have used all the rides, inasmuch as the provisions on the ticket provide that the tickets shall be redeemed for the cost originally paid minus 10 cents for each ride used. For that reason, it will be to the financial advantage of the rider to keep his old tickets until the 13 rides are exhausted and the new ones only five.

Beginning next Wednesday also, there will go into effect several zone extensions on local lines. In Chelmsford street, the zone limit will be extended from the Westlands to Golden Cove road, and on the Lowell line from Percy street to the Brookside turnoff. On Thursday, the new summer fare rate on the Lakeview line, a straight cash fare of 10 cents instead of 20 cents, will go into effect, to continue until Labor day.

LOVELL TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES HAVE gone on record as being opposed to contract labor in the city departments. In a letter received by Mayor Perry D. AUTOIST NOT TO BLAME PAYS TRIBUTE TO 5000 WAR DEAD

Inquest Report Holds Fred H. Gilman Not Guilty of Criminal Negligence

"I find that the death of said Antoine St. George was not caused or contributed to by the criminal negligence of said Fred H. Gilman in the operation of said automobile, or by the criminal negligence of any other person or persons."

This was the conclusion of the inquest finding made by Judge John J. Piekman, and dated May 23, relative to an accident which occurred April 23, about 7:30 p. m. on Merrimack street.

The case of Gilman, who is charged with manslaughter, came up in the police court this morning and was put over for a day, as Judge Enright had not had an opportunity to read the inquest report, submitted only this morning.

PROVISIONAL DIRECTOR FOR CITY WORK

The municipal council will take some action at the meeting, tomorrow morning, on the appointment of a provisional director for the water and fire department during the incapacity of Commissioner John F. Salmon, who is now at St. John's hospital as the result of the serious automobile accident which occurred in Wamesit last Tuesday evening.

Just what steps the council will take to fill Mr. Salmon's position temporarily is not known. It is understood that an ordinance is to be adopted placing the direction of the department in the hands of a competent man, but who the individual will be has not been determined. The council has the power to delegate the supervision of any department to any of the members of the council, in the absence of another member, thus allowing one man to control two departments. While this is among the possibilities, it has not yet been definitely determined that such a course will be taken. However, the council will take some action to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Salmon's absence.

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER BY THE POLICE

Police headquarters received information early this morning, to the effect that a man was floating in the Merrimack river, under the Centerville bridge, but that the body was moving downstream. Sergeants Dwyer and Palmer, together with Officers Cutler, John T. Kelley and Daniel Donovan, sent out found the remains on the opposite side of the river from Kenwood. Two boys in a boat brought the body in from the center of the stream, before the officers could reach the scene in a cutter. The police state that it was the body of a man about 50 or 60, and had been in the river for a long time, to judge by the progress of decomposition.

TRINITY SUNDAY IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Trinity Sunday was observed in all the local Catholic churches yesterday with appropriate services. Especially impressive was the annual May procession in St. Michael's church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The clergy of the parish, members of the Children of Mary and Immaculate Conception sodalities, parochial school children and altar boys participated in the procession as it moved about the aisles of the church. There was a large congregation present. At the conclusion of the procession, solemn benediction was celebrated by Rev. John J. Shaw, the pastor, assisted by Rev. James P. Lynch and Rev. Thomas J. Heagney.

At the 8:30 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church yesterday more than 200 children received their first communion. The girls wore white dresses and the boys dark suits. Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., was the celebrant of the mass.

Next Sunday will be observed as the feast of Corpus Christi and processions will be held in many of the churches.

CHILDREN UNDERWEIGHT

Condition of School Children In Rural Districts is Being Investigated

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, May 23.—A serious condition of undernourishment among children of school age in the rural districts of Massachusetts has been discovered by the state department of health, and is being made the subject of a special investigation by the department.

While the towns thus far studied are all in Berkshire county, the general reputation of that section for healthfulness has caused the department to fear that conditions may be found to be even worse in other parts of the state.

In one group of three towns it was found that of all the children examined only 15 per cent were of normal weight. Sixty-two per cent were less than ten per cent underweight, while 19 per cent were more than ten per cent underweight. Three per cent of the children in these towns were more than 20 per cent underweight.

Most of the troubles of children in these towns, the department attributes to poor teeth and diseased tonsils. It appears that only 15 per cent of the children had sound teeth; seventy-seven per cent were in need of dental care, and eight per cent had received such care.

Twenty per cent of the children had enlarged tonsils, while tonsils had been removed from eight per cent of the children. Fifty-three per cent had enlarged lymphatic glands.

A thorough survey of conditions in Williamstown has been made by the department, and for children generally the results are practically the same as those indicated for the other towns. In Williamstown, however, the department made a special examination of the children who were underweight. It was found that only four per cent of these had sound teeth, while 52 per cent had teeth which urgently needed attention. Thirty-five per cent of these children were found to have enlarged tonsils, eight per cent had enlarged adenoids, and sixteen per cent were suffering from eyestrain.

The department points out that the accepted average of undernourished children throughout the country is twenty per cent, and it declares that something must be done to relieve the alarming condition in Massachusetts.

"A 12-year-old girl who weighs thirty pounds less than she should is an alarming problem," the department says. "Yet, instead of having every effort made to overcome the cause of her condition, she is too often subjected, in addition to the inevitable strain of adolescence, to the overwhelming additional strain of school life. With its exertion, its confinement, its excitement; hastily snatched breakfasts; cold, unappetizing lunches; and sleepers often left uneaten because the child is too tired to be hungry.

"What can be done for these seriously undernourished children? First, start with the teeth. Bad teeth are obstacles to wellbeing in several ways. There is constant absorption of bacteria and decaying matter through the tonsils, and through the digestive tract as everything swallowed is contaminated. There is danger of absorption into the blood stream through root abscesses, which are often neglected in children and may cause permanent injury to the heart or kidneys; also rheumatism, as well as infection of the tonsils and lymphatic glands. And, most obvious of all, a child with aching teeth cannot chew his food properly and, as the slogan of the dental hygienists, 'the stomach has no teeth,' the digestion and assimilation cannot go on as they should. All these arguments apply as well to the first teeth as to the second. The fact that they must be lost is no good reason for allowing the first set to leave life-long damage behind; and how often are the six-year-old molars, the most important of all the permanent set, allowed to decay under the mistaken impression that they are 'baby teeth'."

"The next most obvious defect in these undernourished children is enlarged or diseased tonsils or adenoids. Oxygen is indispensable to health, and it makes no difference whether air is shut out by closed windows or by an obstructed breathing space. Anemia, narrow chest, unsteady sleep, easy fatigue, loss of appetite, and dulled mentality are the consequences. The teeth should first be attended to, and, in some instances, the tonsils, no longer irritated by constant infection, may subside spontaneously. At all events, tonsils should not be removed until such a source of infection of the wound as decaying teeth, has been eliminated."

The department also sounds a melancholy note as to the conditions found with reference to vaccination. It reports that all the children examined in the western towns, 65 per cent had not been successfully vaccinated. Of those successfully vaccinated, 54 per cent were of foreign parentage, and of a group of ten state wards living in those towns, 50 per cent had been successfully vaccinated.

"It would seem," the department concludes, "that in the event of an epidemic of smallpox only our orphans and our immigrants would survive."

GEN. PERSHING ATTACKED

K. of C. Deputy Charges Religious Prejudice—O'Shaughnessy Speaks

BOSTON, May 23.—General Pershing was charged with spreading religious prejudice last night by William C. Prout, recently elected state deputy of the Knights of Columbus. In his address to about 550 fourth degree knights at their annual banquet in the Somerset hotel last night, Deputy Prout said that in the published accounts of his speech at a Y.M.C.A. dinner in New York recently, General Pershing had said that the other organizations engaged in war work had been given greater credit than the Y.M.C.A. and that a very great deal of the criticism of the Y.M.C.A. was due to other organizations that had been given more credit than was their due. Deputy Prout charged these remarks of the general as religious prejudice propaganda and called upon the knights to fight against such prejudice wherever it lifted its head, whether at the instance of General Pershing or anybody else. Peter Collins, who has traveled all over the United States in an effort to remove prejudice against the knights, called attention to the fact that the fine American citizenship of Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations during the war; of Chairman Hurley of the shipping board; of Director Ryan of the air service, and of the late Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court had done more than anything else to remove religious prejudice in the United States. He urged the new members to enter into the life of the nation as these distinguished men had. The American people, said he, understand that the Knights of Columbus do not produce "reds," as some of the universities of our country are doing. Collector O'Shaughnessy of Rhode Island took occasion in the course of his remarks to attack the recent speech of Colonel Harvey, newly appointed ambassador to England. "I was surprised to find," said he, "that the man who represents this country in England says we went to war to save our own sordid hides." "I happen to know something about why we went to war, because I was in congress when the resolution for war was passed, after we had listened to deputation after deputation from the other side telling us that France was bled white and that England was standing with her back against the wall. When we went into the war it was not for ourselves alone, but for all humanity. It is true that we wanted to vindicate our sovereignty when it was attacked on the high seas, but we went to war with a vision for humanity that ill-becomes our representative abroad to belittle by saying it was to save our own skin. Every utterance in the halls of congress, every appeal to the American people to subscribe to liberty bonds to carry on the war was made in the name of humanity, to crush militarism to make the world safe for democracy. We went to war to drive the war lords and autocrats into freeing their slaves. It is detracting from our own dignity and the honor that is rightfully ours, to belittle our motives and purpose in waging the great war, by saying we were simply to save our own sordid hide." In closing Mr. O'Shaughnessy advocated a referendum to all people before any more constitutional amendments are passed. "Your representatives in congress are wont to vote more often through fear than through a sense of duty," said he. "That is why we have the prohibition amendment, which I dare say would not have been ratified by the people in a referendum vote."

NURSES HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Nearly fifty members of the Middlesex County Nurses' association attended the annual meeting of the organization, which was held at the Lowell General Hospital Saturday afternoon. A paper on "Child Welfare" was read by Dr. Edward O. Taber, and a report was made of the biennial convention of the New England branch, which was held in Concord, N. H., May 10 and 11. Officers were elected for the following year as follows: Miss Melissa Cook, superintendent of the Middlesex hospital, president; Miss J. B. Thurlow, superintendent of the Cambridge hospital, first vice president; Miss Estelle Sargent of Newton, second vice president; Miss Leydon of the Stillman Infirmary, Cambridge, secretary-treasurer.

EXCHANGES MAY QUIT UNITED STATES

CHICAGO, May 23.—"If the Tinchler bill becomes a law, undoubtedly the grain exchanges of this country will close, and the price-fixing machinery for grain will remove to Winnipeg, Canada, and Liverpool, England." This is the opinion of Joseph P. Griffin, president of the Chicago board of trade. "The consuming countries, instead of the producing countries," he added, "will fix the price of grain, and the farmer will suffer." "During the war the exchanges were blamed for the high price of wheat, and now they are blamed for the low prices." "Economic conditions alone fix the price of wheat. Europe's call for grain enriched the farmer during the war, but now our customers are in bankruptcy." "The farmers' condition will not be relieved until in some way we open up the markets of the world for what the farmers have to sell. This may necessitate legislation extending credit to European governments or indemnifying American exporters on foreign credit transactions." The Tinchler bill, giving the secretary of agriculture arbitrary authority over boards of trade and enabling him to prohibit at his pleasure the conduct of business, to disclose private affairs for public consumption, to enact regulations arbitrary and unreasonable, means the end of these organizations in the United States. Purpose of Bill The bills designed to abolish the practice in grain markets of "putting" and "calling" "ups" and "downs" and "indemnities" by levying a tax of 20 cents a bushel on such transactions. A similar tax is provided on contracts for future delivery made outside of "contract markets" to be designated by the secretary of agriculture, except when the seller is the actual possessor of the grain. The bill will "absolutely destroy manipulation," according to Representative Tinchler, republican, Kansas. Its author, although it does not abolish what is known to the grain trade as the "legitimate hedge," he said. The Lantz bill to curb grain exchanges now in the Illinois legislature, is regarded as much more drastic than the Tinchler bill, but Griffin says there is not much chance of its passing. Farmers' organizations take the attitude that unrestricted trading in contracts for the future delivery of grain is gambling; that such trading affects prices to the profit of the "gambler" and to the loss of both producer and consumer. They advocate that future trading be so limited as practically to exclude it. awarded in the order that the entries were received. It was specifically stated when the rules of the contest were announced that only the figure "9s" appearing in paid advertisements would count in the contest. Many contestants failed to confine themselves to advertisements, but counted the "9s" in the reading matter as well. This automatically barred their papers for consideration. There was some doubt among many contestants as to whether the timetable of the Boston & Maine railroad counted. This is not a paid advertisement but owing to the possibility of doubt among the contestants, those who marked the "9s" in the timetable were not barred from winning a prize provided they found a sufficient number of "9s" in the advertisements to warrant their papers being given consideration.

A test of the new way to beautify teeth

This offer is now made almost the world over. It is published in many languages. Millions of people of many races have thus found a way to fight film on teeth.
All careful people owe themselves this test—all who want teeth whiter, safer, cleaner.
That dingy film
Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. Peel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Your tooth brush used in old ways leaves much of it intact.
Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.
Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.
Teeth not clean
Film-coated teeth are unclean. That is why so many teeth brushed daily discolor and decay. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing, and film is the cause of most of them.
Dental science, therefore, has sought ways to fight the film. Two ways have now been found.
Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.
The methods are embodied in a modern tooth paste—Pepsodent. And millions of people now enjoy its benefits.
Acts in 5 ways
Pepsodent does more than combat film. It also fights starch deposits on teeth and acids.
It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling and may otherwise form acids. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause decay.
Each use brings five effects which modern authorities regard as essential. It is bringing a new dental era.
One week tells
One week will show you what this new method means. It will change all your ideas on teeth cleaning.
Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.
Judge then what is best for you and yours by what you see and feel. Cut out the coupon now.

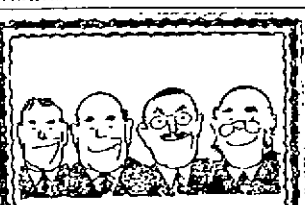

A scientific film combatant, combined with two other modern requisites. Now advised for daily use by leading dentists everywhere. Supplied by druggists in large tubes.

$2500 FIRE IN MIDDLESEX STREET

A building numbered 511-515 Middlesex street and occupied by Jacob Fox, second hand furniture dealer, and Keuzen's shoe store, was damaged by fire Saturday night to the extent of about $2500. The fire, the cause of which is not known, started in the cellar and was discovered shortly before 11:30 o'clock at which time an alarm was sounded from box 25. When the firemen reached the premises the fire had worked its way to the second floor and was making rapid progress, but its course was quickly checked. There were two telephone alarms yesterday, the first at 7:35 a. m. for a slight blaze at 155 Andover street and the other at 9 a. m. for a leaking pipe at the store of the Talbot Clothing Co.

ELASTIC SIDE
Satin slippers are affecting the small piece of elastic at the side that they may fit more snugly over the ankle. Narrow barrettes across the instep are very good and often a semi-precious stone glistens on a hat ornament.
DID YOU KNOW—
That if when baking small cakes you fill one of the gem pans with water, the cakes will not burn? That a raw prune put in the coffee urn will give the coffee a good flavor? A sheet of tin foil under the center piece the vase rests on will prevent dampness injuring the finish of the table?

25,000 WITNESS MEMORIAL MASS

Cardinal O'Connell and Governor Cox Review Service at Navy Yard

Rev. Fr. O'Connor, World War Chaplain, Delivers Eloquent Sermon

BOSTON, May 23.—A solemn memorial mass for the repose of the souls of deceased sailors, soldiers and marines of the United States army and navy was sung in the navy yard at Charlestown yesterday morning. About 25,000 persons from all parts of Greater Boston wended their way to the naval station and stood reverently under the rays of a withering sun for more than an hour while the most solemn service of the Catholic church was carried out.

ashed to the numerous piers of the naval station were ships of almost every fighting class. Huge dreadnoughts overshadowed the smaller craft, all in their somber gray, and on the masts and decks of these varied defenders of the flag on the sea were many hundreds of officers and men, all facing the temporary altar that had been erected in the bandstand just to the rear of the commandant's residence.

Heat Only Drawback
The arrangements for the solemn service were ideal. The magnificent span of greenward surrounding the bandstand was kept almost clear of people. Just to its left, facing the parade ground, had been arranged a reserved place where Cox, commanding of the yard, Capt. J. J. Holland, representing Rear Admiral Dunn; William Healy, representing Mayor Peters; Hon. Joseph H. O'Neill, James J. Phelan and others of the committee who arranged the affair and a number of other well-known civilians were gathered.

The main driveway to the yard allowed the many thousands who attended to file into the vast space at the head of the parade ground, where they faced the temporary altar. There was ample opportunity for all to obtain a view of the ceremonies.

There was only one disturbing influence and that was the extreme heat, which resulted in almost a dozen persons, mostly young women, being overcome. Under the direction of Capt. H. C. U. S. N., and Chief John W. Fife of the Navy Yard police these cases were handled well. An automobile was pressed into service and remained close to the parade field. Anyone succumbing to the intense heat was quickly removed by stately young sailors, placed in the automobile and taken to the dispensary of the yard.

Throng Come Early
The great throngs began to pour in to the Navy Yard, which had not been open to the public since the world war, shortly after 9 in the morning.

The military arrangements for the ceremony were under the direction of Brig. Gen. John J. Sullivan, with Maj. Edward J. Sampson as chief of staff.

The various bodies assembled at Thompson square and at 10 o'clock the column moved over a short route, arriving at the yard just previous to 10.30 o'clock, at which hour the solemn mass started.

On the staff of Gen. Sullivan were many military men, as well as a large number of well-known civilians. Then came the reorganized regiment destined to be known as the 101st Infantry, the Bunker Hill Post of the American Legion, members of the Army and Navy union department of Massachusetts, under whose auspices the service was held, the women's auxiliary of the same organization, several companies of the Bishop Cheverus Assembly, fourth degree Knights of Columbus, wearing baldric and sword, and the Cardinal Cadets from St. Mary's parish in Charlestown.

Eccelesastical Procession
When the military and civic bodies had been drawn up in position, the ecclesiastical procession, formed in one of the yard buildings, started and proceeded along the main drive to the temporary altar. Thurfers, candle bearers, acolytes and altar attendants headed this column, after which came the harmonized choir of St. Anne's seminary, under the direction of Fr. Murphy.

The subdeacon and deacon followed and immediately behind them, Major John B. Peterson, president of the seminary, who officiated at the service. These three wore the rich vestments of white and gold, incident to the day, Trinity Sunday.

Next in line were Rev. Dr. Richard J. Haberlin, Cardinal O'Connell's secretary, and Rev. George O'Connell of the Catholic charitable bureau, who preached the sermon. Cardinal O'Connell, in his rich red robes, was in the position of honor at the end of the ecclesiastical column.

Arriving at the altar, the solemn memorial mass was immediately started and proceeded to the people, when the sermon was preached. Fr. O'Connor, who was a world war chaplain, spoke feelingly of the great necessity of eliminating all else for the purpose of saving the immortal soul.

Review After Mass
Following the sermon the solemn mass proceeded. At the consecration, in keeping with military custom, three rounds were fired by a squad.

At the conclusion of the mass Gov. Cox and Cardinal O'Connell with the other dignitaries took up a position at the entrance of the band stand and just before the altar, where they reviewed the column of military and civic bodies that had participated, which then marched out of the navy yard.

TO JAMES ROANE
Saturday evening in the Richardson hotel, James "Roundy" Roane was tendered a dinner by a large number of his friends in honor of his coming marriage to Miss Edna Kierstead. The affair was an absolute surprise to Mr. Roane, who was hired to the hotel by an alleged business appointment. His surprise was very evident as he was ushered into the dining room and Raymond Bourgeois, the toastmaster of the affair, called for a toast to the benedict-to-be.

As the dinner progressed and between courses there were speeches, songs and stories by Charles W. Gray, Robert M. Eddis, Cyril Clifford, John Harrington, Edward Garvey, Robert Hemmell, Paul Doherty and Harry Daggett, all of whom responded to Toastmaster Bourgeois' suggestions with many clever bits of entertainment.

At the conclusion of the dinner the toastmaster called upon Henry Mulcahy, of The Sun advertising staff, an old roommate of the guest of the evening, for a few remarks and to present the guest of the evening a traveling bag as a slight token of their appreciation and best wishes for a happy married life.

"Roundy" expressed his surprise and pleasure when called upon for a speech. Then the party adjourned to the Highland club, where arrangements had been made for another jollification, which lasted until midnight and ended with the singing of "Good-bye, Good-bye, I'm Through," by all present.

To save the life of a penniless boy who was hurled into a small lake from the top of a coach on a speeding train, the Olympian, famous train of the Milwaukee railroad, took a sliding white the engine returned to pick up the boy who was found badly bruised and unable to walk.

He was taken to the railroad hospital at Lind, Washington, where it is said he will recover.

LAST GOODBYES SAID TO LOWELL PLAYERS
A surface showing of merit failed to completely hide an undercurrent of sadness as the final good-byes were exchanged between representatives of the city's theatre-going public and members of the Lowell Players in the Opera House Saturday night.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson expressed the appreciation of the large number of persons who have been patrons of the theatre during the year for the earnest efforts that have been made by the actors and actresses to entertain. He referred to the generosity of the management in offering the use of its property for the promotion of numerous worthy causes, and mentioned the fact that he had not received a letter or word of complaint from anyone during the season regarding any happening in the playhouse.

Miss Margaret Pella thanked the audience for a real ovation, lasting several minutes, that was given her. When she retired from the front of the stage her arms were laden with flowers. The mayor recalled that he had presented a diploma to Charles L. Barton, a member of the cast, when he was graduated from high school, and when Mr. Barton made his appearance he was given a rousing reception. All of the other members of the company were given equally flattering evidences of the kindly feelings of the audience.

Although the ringing down of the curtain Saturday night marked the close of the season for the Lowell Players, the theatre is to be opened June 2, 3 and 4 for a presentation of "Honors Are Even" by William Courtney and Lola Fisher.

AMUSEMENT NOTES
(By the Theatres Own Press Agents)
B. F. HENRY'S CHICAGO
Margaret Young, who will entertain audiences at the B. F. Keith theatre this week beginning today, hails from the city where Henry Ford's Tin Snaffle first made his appearance in Detroit. And she was a member of society there in the days when Mr. Ford was as prominent as he is today.

Miss Young, who has been a successful entertainer, she could do about everything, sing, play, tell stories and give out imitations of famous personages. Time came when Miss Young had to choose between a career as a woman of society, or an actress. It became frankly impossible to be both. She took the stage and has been very highly rated since she took the step. Her ability is undoubted, and she is, in addition, a very beautiful woman. As a story teller she is all, and she can sing very prettily.

William Sully and Genevieve Houghton will drop 100 guineas during the week. Andy Rice put the thing together, and he never did anything better in his whole life. Sully is a member of the theatre, and is known as the "Whole Sully." Miss Houghton has had much experience in rapid fire, and is a very successful ventriloquist features never before attempted by anybody else in his line. He has a pleasing personality, and generally his performances contain more genuine novelties than will be found anywhere else in a regular season. Among other things he has a complete mental while performing his act. He is assisted by Edna Courtney.

An offering that the public is bound to like is "Deale Nuts," by Joe Snicker and Billy Fitzsimmons are offering. The central character in the piece is a seller of papers and magazines, who over the years has accumulated a large following.

Pretty girls who sing and dance and offer a surprise are Nellie and Josephine Jordan, who are fair to look upon and very shapely. They are M. H. Britton, who the xylophone mallets exclusively for hammering out jazz and other syncopated tunes, and Samaya is a Spanish aerial wonder.

THE STRAND
Gouverneur Morris has created one of the most fascinating and amazing characters in American fiction in "Blizzard," the latest wonder of the underworld of San Francisco. The film comes to the Strand for today and for next two days. With unsurpassed vividness, the baby-faced Blizzard is pictured as the moment when an accident of city life does him to drag through life legless. Whether the surgeon was justified in his question, Dr. Ferris amputated both legs at the knees and the young undying hate of Blizzard. Years later, Barbara, the daughter of Dr. Ferris, seeks fame as a sculptress. Blizzard meanwhile has won a powerful over the criminals of the Pacific coast and with an insane energy plots the taking of the city of San Francisco. In his brain is also an idea that long possessed him—to wreck conceivance on Dr. Ferris. Blizzard strikes through the daughter, who seeks and gains the confidence of the latter and with the insane idea that legs of a human being may be grafted on to a dog's, he plans to make a range for the abduction of the girl and then on the pretence of releasing her, to force the father to come for her. When Dr. Ferris appears he is called upon to make the sacrifice of his legs, and preparations are being made to force him to the city of San Francisco. A sudden twist of affairs brings when a new and startling phase that helps clear up the suspicions and opens a bright and happy future for those entitled to it. Len Chaney, who appears in the role of "Blizzard" has one of the notable portrayals of his screen career. Don't miss the biggest and best picture of the year.

Feature number two for the first three days will present Eagle Williams in "Diamonds and a Woman," an interesting comedy drama, in which the star is seen in a characterization that affords him special opportunity for the reduction of his talent. The story has many interesting side lights, including the chase of a cat that carries a $500 necklace about its throat. Don't miss seeing it for its worth-while offering.

REALTY THEATRE
"Passion," the screen sensation of the present season introducing the international star Pola Negri in the role of a sexy French midwife who attained great favor at the hands of the French monarch, Louis XV, is the attraction of the Realty theatre for the next three days beginning today. It is really the wonder picture of the season, and is one you'll all enjoy immensely. Supporting the feature is a Charlie Chaplin comedy, "Easy Street," also a continuation of "The Son of Tarzan" and the Fox news.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Tonight is the night that Lieutenant Lott, former member of the 6888 Central Postal Directory, will fly over Lowell distributing passes for the Merrimack Square theatre. The lieutenant will make his flight over the city about 10 o'clock this evening. He will drop 100 passes. Don't miss him. The photograph program at the Merrimack Square for the first half of the week is most attractive. The leading feature is Sir James M. Barrie's noted story of Scotch life, "Sentimental Tommy." An all-star cast has been chosen to interpret the various characters. Elsie Ferguson in "Sacred and Profane Love" will be seen in a strong dramatic story of modern life. A comedy and the International News will round out the bill.

Fake pearls, to the amount of nearly a million dollars' worth, have been imported by London jewelers from Japan. The pearls are produced by live oysters covering a mother of pearl bead with a thin veneer exactly resembling the true oriental pearl. It is impossible to expose the fake except by breaking the gem which is an expensive process. Further importations are prohibited.

Kilbane Explains Plan of Battle For Championship Jersey Bout

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
What will be Jack Dempsey's plan of battle in his fight with Georges Carpentier?

That is a question that has been asked and will be asked many times. It is a hard one to answer, as plans laid before a fight, especially one of this importance, are generally knocked to pieces before the men have gone very far. Plans of battle are usually laid, or rather made, by one opponent for the other. That is, each must adapt himself to the other's offense and defense when the battle is actually on.

It is idle to say before the men step into the ring that Dempsey will do this and that, or that Carpentier will do this and otherwise. Of course, each has his particular style, or specialty, but circumstances very often alter styles.

How Others Fought

Joe Gans was a consistent counterer. Terry McGovern rushed in head down and tried to batter his men down with sheer strength and speed of attack. Jim Corbett hooked and jabbed with his left and did much footwork. Jeffries crouched, boxed cautiously and when the opportunity presented itself he largely on getting inside, hammering the body with his right and then bringing the left over to the head. I do not see how he can afford to do otherwise. The champion fights from side to side, while Carpentier steps in and out, using a fast one-two.

Jack Must Fight

If Carpentier does not vary from his style, Dempsey would be foolish to stand off and attempt to box with the Frenchman. He could not catch him with such tactics, his opponent being too fast and smart at this sort of a game. A little backpedal and Dempsey would miss, leaving him open for a knockout.

Will Let Jack Lead

What Carpentier will try when he starts also is hard to predict. I believe that he will permit Dempsey to do all of the starting, that he will be cautious to the point of creating the belief that he is not much in love with the issue—a little bit afraid, to be perfectly plain and frank. Speed of hand and foot he undoubtedly has, and as they are his principal assets, unless he has developed something of which we know nothing at this time, they must be his principal stock in trade, with the style of fighting as we have known it when he starts to go.

Hey, Listen Jack!

Hey, listen, Jack. I know you're feelin' hearty an' eatin' well, an' all that sort of stuff. But this here fight won't be no pink-tea party. This guy Carpentier is pretty tough! Don't let him fool you with his manners pleasant. He packs a nasty wallop, don't be slack. Or you'll get a knockout for a present! Hey, listen, Jack!

Come on, old kiddo, do a little trainin'. Sweat off that grease an' get yourself in trim. Or when the fight is done you'll be explainin' 'I guess I underestimated him'.

Many a champ has had his head grow blurry. And found himself recumbent on his back because he didn't think he had to worry.

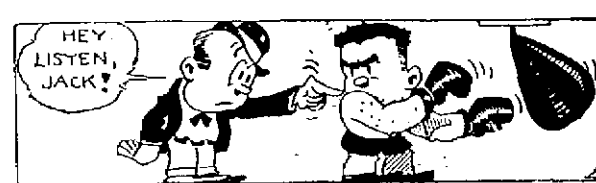

Hey, listen, Jack!

Hey, listen, Jack, this fight's in the movies. An' you'd better don't give you any pep!

Hey, listen, Jack! What I am tryin' to prove is you gotta work, you gotta watch yer step! Condition counts, in fact I'd say it's vital. An' if you don't reduce the meat on you pack, I'll lose my money an' you'll drop your title!

Hey, listen, Jack!

SULLIVAN TO AGAIN TRY CHANNEL SWIM

Henry Sullivan of Lowell, America's greatest long distance swimmer, will make his fourth attempt to swim the English channel in August. Sullivan will sail from New York about July 11 and will set up his training quarters in Dover, Eng. He will be accompanied by John J. Conlon of Lowell, his friend and adviser, and Captain Nathan L. Smith of Wintrop, who has acted as his pilot on all of his important swims. Sullivan's first attempt to cross the channel's English seas was made in 1913 when he came within five miles of reaching his objective. Last summer he made two attempts. On his first he came within two and one-half miles of the French coast after being in the water 19 hours and 30 minutes, and on his second trial was only a mile and a half from land when forced to quit on account of intestinal trouble. He had been in the water 18 hours and 30 minutes.

THREE EXTRA INNING GAMES YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, May 23.—Extra inning games were fought in three of the six major league games played yesterday. The victors were the Chicago Nationals and the Philadelphia and New York Americans.

Four home runs featured the first contest of a series in which the New York Nationals had hopes of overtaking the Pittsburgh leaders. Each team battled out two great clouts and this contest also might have gone into extra innings had not the Giants defeated the Yankees in the ninth inning.

HIGHLAND DAYLIGHTS WIN

In a bitterly fought game the Highland Daylights defeated the A.L.A. at Ayer yesterday by a score of 1-0. Both teams played excellent ball. The Daylights' only run came in the eighth with a two-bagger by Smith followed by Bridgeford's double to left. Delaney and Bridgeford were on the mound for the local team with Armitage on the receiving end.

"Rip" Falls of Lowell was on the slab for Ayer.

The Daylights made 5 hits while the Ayer team collected but three. Both teams played errorless ball.

Carpentier Smashes Hopes Of English Lightweights

BRITISH SCRAPPERS FLOCKED TO PARIS TO MEET CARPENTIER, AS THE FRENCH STAR WAS HOPPING FROM ONE DIVISION TO ANOTHER AS HE TOOK ON WEIGHT, AND GEORGES KNOCKED 'EM OFF AS FAST AS THEY CAME.

BY HAL COCHRAN

On the second meeting between Carpentier and Paul Tili, there was much speculation as to what would happen. The first scrap, over the 20-round route, had been a draw. This time the go was for 10 rounds. Would Carpentier speed up, in the shorter route? That's just what he did, and won the decision.

Georges was fast taking on weight and flitting with the feather division. Just previous to graduating he disposed of Pickard and Lampin, via the K. O. route and won on a four from Young Warner. It was the second time he had darkened the lamps of Lampin.

Georges Taken Lacking

Few battles came during the featherweight days. One of the first was a setback, at the hands of Buck Shine, an English fighter. Carpentier took a good licking in 8 rounds.

Following in short order came another defeat when he clashed with Young Snowball, another Englishman. Paul Tili, still a novice, then made a bid for a third match with Georges. The two fought to a draw in 15 rounds. Fighting men whom he had already clashed with, was one of the best little things Carpentier did in the early days. He was always willing to give a man another chance.

Young Warner followed Tili's attempt, coming in, but he lost. After Georges, in their first mix, on a foul, the fight, it was a different story, and contained another battle would see him winner. Carpentier was willing and the two journeyed to Campbell for a 10-round go. In the seventh frame the question of superiority was settled when Warner was knocked into dreamland.

Wins over Percy Wilson, in 10 rounds; George Gallard, in 8 rounds; Cuny, in 8 rounds; Jack Daniels in 10 rounds and Demien, a Belgian star, in 10 rounds followed. And in the

TEXTILE LEAGUE GAMES SATURDAY

In the Lowell Textile League Saturday, the Massachusetts mills defeated the Appleton mills, 11 to 5, on the first street oval before a large crowd. The game was played over the date of the game to be determined by the managers of both teams and the president of the league.

PLAY GAME OVER

As a result of a hearing on the dispute over a game played May 10 between Sharps' Nobles and the St. Peter's A. A. members of the city Junior League, it has been ordered that the game be played over, the date of the game to be determined by the managers of both teams and the president of the league.

MT. PLEASANT GOLFERS

H. J. Thompson and A. E. Howard tied for the best gross in the first qualifying round for the championship at the Mt. Pleasant Golf club Saturday. Their gross was $4. J. Roy Bennett and L. H. Carpenter had the best net scores. In the golf ball sweepstakes James J. Ward had the best gross, $5, and Timothy J. Ward was second with $3. J. H. Martin scored the best net with 71 and second place went to W. J. Martel with 71.

TEXTILE LEAGUE

The Appleton and Massachusetts teams crossed bats Saturday afternoon on the first street oval. A large crowd was present to see the Massachusetts team win by a wide margin. Long playing and costly errors proved fatal to the Appleton team. Peterson and Ganley starred for the Massachusetts outfit and Gladie for the Appletons.

The Frenchman spent part of his first day in camp reading a scrap-book. Prizefighters are especially fond of scrap books.

Georges Traveling Light! But Goodness, What a Wardrobe

MANHASSET, N. Y., May 23.—If Georges Carpentier were to enter the ring, clad in his latest fashion in pajamas there is no question but that the minute they hit him in the eye, Jack Dempsey would just naturally take the count and "kiss the canvas." There are, however, merciful laws protecting impressionable prizefighters, so Georges will wear his usual fighting togs, into whose briefly there has been woven the hairs from his Boston police dog's bang. He will—terrible disappointment—wear the old dingy gray bathrobe with its flannel reverse side—for luck!

But what of the men Dieu! and encore ah!

If you could only see those clothes—day and night—that the Barry Wall of the palace ring has brought from that gay Paris!

Owing to the fact that the pugilistic "elegant" is traveling light—being strictly for work—he has only brought 16 suits of clothes (the-sides evening togs), four dozen silk shirts, four dozen pair of silk hose, three dozen neckties, three dozen handkerchiefs, and a small box of D. & A.—two dozen pajamas.

KNOCK OUT ENDED LAST INTERNATIONAL TITLE GO

By MAN HASSETT
Noted Fight Expert

When Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier meet July 2 it will be the second time that an international battle for the world's championship under Marquise of Queensbury rules has been fought.

To the late Charles Mitchell, the great English champion, and Jim Corbett, the great American, who met in the first international contest under these rules with the padded mitts.

Two years before his fight with Mitchell, the American won the heavyweight championship of the world in the first contest for the title in which the big gloves were used and Queensbury rules prevailed, but he took the honors from an American—good old John L.

The fight between Mitchell and Corbett, which took place in Jacksonville, Fla., on Jan. 25, 1894, was won by Corbett by a clean knockout in the third round. It was a grudge affair, if there ever was one.

Grudge Growns

Bad blood existed between the men almost from the day that Corbett had battered the "Boston Strong Boy" into a state of helplessness in 21 rounds. Mitchell had held Corbett's victory, declaring that Sullivan at that time was nothing more than old man, and that any good fighter could have stopped him in four rounds.

The impetuous and highly-strung Corbett always sensitive to criticism, immediately conceived a violent dislike that soon grew into intense hatred for the Briton and when the latter came to America it was without much difficulty that a match between them was arranged.

Tom Allen, another Englishman, who had won the heavyweight championship under London ring rules, trained Mitchell for the battle.

Corbett had with him the old crowd that conditioned him for the Sullivan fight. When the day of battle arrived both were in wonderful condition, but Mitchell was under the double handicap of more years and fewer pounds.

Corbett never in an amiable mood bore a fight, was in lowering rage at ringtime because of the efforts that had been made to stop the contest. These, however, were unsuccessful.

Fight by Rounds

The following is a newspaper round-by-round account of the Corbett-Mitchell fight. It was published the day following Corbett's victory, Jan. 26, 1894.

Round 1.—Corbett sprang from his corner as if suddenly released from restraint and Mitchell, in more leisurely manner, waited in the center to meet him. Corbett worked his opponent to the ropes, Mitchell cleverly escaping after a complete tour of the ring. Mitchell feinted with his left and then led with it for the ribs, but Corbett was elsewhere. Corbett landed a glancing left on the jaw, Mitchell clinched and after the break landed on Corbett's wind, getting him's left on the nose in return. Mitchell fell twice with the left, but fell short. On the third attempt he landed lightly on the wind, but took no pay a bang on the nose which reddened that organ. Mitchell landed lightly on the jaw, but took a hard one flush to the face that jolted him back.

Round 2.—Mitchell led with the left catching Corbett on the mouth. Mitchell then for the first time tried to force the fight, but his blows fell short. Corbett resumed the offensive and soon had Mitchell in a corner, where he landed a left heavily on the mouth. In a brief rally Mitchell took a severe punch on the neck, cleverly parrying a swing at the jaw. Toward the close of the round Corbett worked Mitchell over the ropes, landed a straight left, on the temple and dropped him. At this point Corbett utterly lost his head. If it had not been for Referee Kelly's heavy restraining hand he would then there have lost the fight. He was frantic to get at his man and finish him, actually struggling with the referee to dash at Mitchell every time the Englishman got up on one knee. The going was soured with Mitchell still down.

Round 3.—During the minute's rest the referee very seriously warned Corbett about fouling and his seconds implored him to keep his head. When the gong sounded Mitchell came up slowly and Corbett sprang at him. There was only one fighter in the ring and Corbett, who had rushed Mitchell into a corner, where, after punching Mitchell on the nose with his left and drawing blood, he swung on his right and knocked him down. Again Corbett lost his head and Kelly alone could not keep him away from Mitchell, who, half dazed, was awaiting his 10 seconds. Corbett's attentions jumped into the ring and pushed Corbett away from his victim. Their arguments fell on deaf ears. Their man was mad. The instant Mitchell was up Corbett plunged at him, smashing him on the mouth. Mitchell fell heavily and the blood gushed from his mouth and nose. Again Corbett's arms around him, and he would have killed him if it had not been for the referee's hand. Every word the referee said, the counting of the time-keepers, the appeals of Corbett's seconds and the angry protests of Mitchell—all these were lost in the din of the battle as the beaten Englishman turned slowly on his back and at last staggered to his feet. Instantly prompted him to put up his hands, but he stood as a statue, faceless and dazed, as Corbett rushed at him and swinging his right smashed a terrific blow squarely on Mitchell's jaw. The Englishman fell heavily on his side and rolled over on his face, senseless and knocked out. Corbett did not look at him again. Any man who could have struck that blow would have to be carried out of the ring.

"UPSTREAM DAY"

Result of Sporting Events by Textile School

The Lowell Textile school alumni welcomed the seniors of that institution in a five-inning baseball contest Saturday morning at the Martin Luther club grounds, by a score of 10—2.

The game was one of the features of the "Upstream Day," the big annual outing of the undergrads in former years, and this year the occasion of the first outdoor get-together of the "old boys" and the student body. A stream baseball club resulted in victory by the seniors over the faculty, 4—2.

The festivities of the day opened shortly after a. m. when a parade of students, instructors and alumni swung out into the road from the school grounds and marched through the city's principal business thoroughfares in a "textile" parade. A special train rushed the paraders to the Martin Luther grounds. The student-alumni game started things off, and was followed by a group picture of the merry-makers. In the course of the meal Milton Washburn, president of the senior class, and the student body, presented a loving cup to Professor Lester H. Cushing, head of the language department. The cup, which was suitably engraved, was a testimonial from the undergraduates for Professor Cushing's aid in the progress of "textile" athletics.

A elegant rush was next in order, and this was the faculty sought in vain to smother the class of 1921 in a baseball mauling. The battery for the instructors was Coach McIntire and Professor Cushing. The final score was 2 to 2 in favor of the seniors. The double effects of Charles H. Eames, president of the institution, who twice smote the pill for hits, mate riot of Georges "sous-dessous" I could appreciate the sentiments of a police reporter suddenly hurried into an assignment of writing up a June bride's trousseau.

The first impression when the pajamas are introduced is that of gazing upon a very future, painting against a background combined of an Alcazar Borealis and a pyrotechnic display.

The new Parisian pajamas of Georges are cut kimono fashion—the coat! The trousers have darling little cuffs—quite Yale and Harvardish effects. The coats have shawl collars of plain silk of contrasting (it was almost on the point of saying "harmonizing") colors. A jaunty dash of this plain silk confines the kimono cut coat at the waist and the garment's pockets are lined with this silk.

Now that is the general plan—if you get me.

The real overpowering effect is the color scheme. These new pajamas are made of a heavy, soft silk of kaleidoscopic colors. They are so vivid and dazzling that they seem to move. From the front of the garment, a pair of eyes fell upon a most gorgeous dressing robe. Heavy silk with were unavailing to prevent victory by the youngsters.

The freshmen were victorious in a tug-of-war with the sophs. Marble and Carpenter earned the laurel crown in the three-legged race. Washburn topped the wreath of conquest in the 100-yard dash. Jones and Hubbard strove to a dead heat in the potato race, and the prize was awarded to the latter after the flip of a coin. The married men's race was won by Professor Cushing, who romped in ahead of the field. Omicron Pi was the winning frat in the inter-fraternity race. Schneider won the standing broad jump, but not without a struggle.

Fisticuffs followed. Schneider emerging from two brief bouts victorious. He killed it with Edingard for two rounds and after a rest period mingled with Corkey with three rounds. He proved himself the champion in each of these sweat-swapping contests.

The awarding of trophies to the successful competitors in each event now took place, and at the conclusion of this ceremony a grand feast was heard, and heeled. A stand-up buffet luncheon of such sound victuals as baked beans, cold meats, and coffee was enjoyed by all. "Second" and "third" prizes were awarded to the "Upstreamers" who had piloted the special train that took them back to this city. Closing exercises consisted of a parade to the city square, with cheering and song. There the group disbanded.

It has been decided to make this joint outing of a grand affair, and together with the instructors of the school, an annual event.

One of the most enjoyed features of the day was the presence of Mayor Perry D. Thompson, guest of honor, and sole speaker of the occasion. His honor made a brief address following dinner, and paid tribute to the school spirit of Lowell textile, as evinced in the wholesome activities of "Upstream Day." He lauded the institution both as a premier educational center, and as a developer of clean American athletics.

Tomorrow night the Highland Faylights and the Highland and the Highland are to meet. Wednesday night the Highland and the Highland are to play. Thursday the Gillespie and Highland Faylights, and Friday the C.M.A.C. and the Highland are to play. The Gillespie are defeated the Highland A.A. in Westford Saturday afternoon by the score of 10 to 4.

WHIST PARTY RESULTS

The whist party conducted recently in association with the C.A.C. and the B. Steward for the benefit of St. Jeanne d'Arc chapel in Pawtucketville, netted the sum of $302. This amount has been turned over to the Olate Fathers of St. Joseph's parish, who are in charge of the chapel and will be devoted toward reducing the debt of the new church, which is $10,341.11.

This announcement was made at the high mass in the chapel yesterday by the pastor, Very Rev. E. J. Turpin, O.S.A., who also acknowledged several gifts, which include statues, sanctuary lamp, way of the cross and cash. Fr. Turpin expressed the belief that within a short time the district will be converted into a parish with a permanent pastor.

TORNADO CAUSES DEATH AND RUIN

North New England Swept By Severe Storm—Ship Shed Ripped From Pier

Brick Front of Hotel Falls on Motor Parties—Wires Cut, Houses Blown Down

PORTLAND, May 23.—Carrying death and destruction in its wake, a tornado swept through the interior of Maine yesterday afternoon, widening its path as it went along and expending its force along the coast for an area of 50 miles. Damage to the extent of thousands of dollars was caused by the high wind and lightning. Trees were lifted up by their roots, outbuildings were lifted from their foundations, telephone and telegraph lines were destroyed, cities were left without light or fire alarm protection.

Losses Life in Storm

Earl Lamoline, 17 years old, lost his life in the storm, when the freight and passenger shed of the Casco Bay Steamship company at Doughty's landing, Long Island, near here, was swept from the pier and into the water. Four persons were carried into the bay with the shed, and Lamoline was drowned before he could be rescued from the water.

The storm first put in its appearance at Waterville. The storm broke suddenly, appearing black against the sky. A funnel-shaped shadow appeared in the sky from the northwest, and with crashes of lightning and wind swept through the city and vicinity. Carrying clouds of debris, sticks, limbs, stones, it sent trees to the ground, breaking the smaller saplings off like pipestems. Telephone and telegraph poles were snapped off, and wires were twisted into a mass of debris. Fences were blown flat. Chimneys were swept to the ground. The electric lighting and trolley service were put out of commission; trees blocked streets and smashed the roofs of buildings.

Two steeples points of the First Baptist church were sent to the ground. A sleeping porch was lifted from a dwelling, blown clear over the house and set down on a lawn on the opposite side of the street. Awnings were stripped and many of their frames broken in two. Plate glass windows on Main street, in the business section were broken.

Building Collapses on Man

From Waterville the storm lifted again, sweeping above the towns in the Kennebec valley. Lightning and wind were in evidence in Augusta, but no damage was done. At Auburn the wind sheared trees of limbs and blew debris about, causing some damage. Sweeping on toward the coast, the storm developed its greatest ferocity, constantly widening its path.

At Rumford, near Lewiston, Frank Melane, a resident of the neighborhood was dangerously injured when a building into which he had just stepped for shelter collapsed on top of him. The efforts of 10 men were required to dig him out. He was found to have both legs and one arm broken, and is believed to be suffering from internal injuries.

Reaching Cumberland county, it swept to the east cutting a path stretching the width of the county and reaching to the coast. Striking the open sea the storm combed towns for a great distance.

AT SALISBURY AND HAMPTON BEACHES

SALISBURY BEACH, May 23.—Yesterday was a real beach day and the hot weather early filled the cars.

At Rumford, near Lewiston, Frank Melane, a resident of the neighborhood was dangerously injured when a building into which he had just stepped for shelter collapsed on top of him. The efforts of 10 men were required to dig him out. He was found to have both legs and one arm broken, and is believed to be suffering from internal injuries.

Reaching Cumberland county, it swept to the east cutting a path stretching the width of the county and reaching to the coast. Striking the open sea the storm combed towns for a great distance.

force is smaller this year than last. Tonight the board of trade holds its annual spring banquet at the Hotel Newark and a good attendance is assured. There is but little doubt that the board will arrange a large number of reduced rate excursions to the beach this season. Prominent members of the board have expressed their hopes that river navigation would soon be taken up and that at no distant time excursion steamers would ply between Haverhill and the beach. If this should occur it would mean a great deal for the Black Rocks section and compel the installation of some regular and efficient passenger service between that point and the center of the beach at Broadway. It is possible that negotiations which were broken off the year before last with Boston parties for excursion service from the Hub may be resumed when a lower level of steamboat cost and operation expenses are reached.

"IS THAT YOU, YOUR ROYAL HIGHNESS?" ASKED FLIPPETY-FLAP

"Ting-a-ling-a-ling" rang Flippety Flap on the telephone he took out of his shoe.

"Hello, Long Distance, please give me the fairy queen," said he.

"What's he doing?" whispered the warthog to Nancy, while Flippety-Flap waited for the fairy queen to answer.

"He's talking across the ocean to fairyland," answered Nancy.

"Ocean? What's the ocean?" went on the warthog. "And fairyland?"

"But Flippety-Flap was talking again and Nancy said it was impolite to speak when someone was phoning, but that she'd tell him some time again. The warthog did a back somersault as he had a habit of doing, and said he was sorry, and commanded the council of creatures to be quiet, too, until Flippety-Flap had finished.

"Is that you, Your Royal Highness?" asked Flippety-Flap. "Yes, we got here all right. No, we haven't got sly Tag Tiger yet, but we're going to soon without a doubt. Will you please tell the circus people to have a big cage ready with the door wide open, and to face it this way. We may need it in a hurry. Yes, that's all, thank you. Goodbye."

"Now, then, folks!" he cried, putting away his telephone and rubbing his hands together in a business-like way. "Let's get busy." Nick and Nancy, you go and bring me a perk of nice round peppercorns. And I want the rest of you to come along with me and show me where each one of you lives."

"But our homes are a secret!" protested the mongoose.

"I'll bet Tag Tiger knows the street and number of every one of you," said Flippety-Flap. "Secret, indeed! Do you wish me to help you or do you not?"

"Right, O!" nodded the fairyman. "Now you twine be off, and meet me here in an hour."

MOTHER AND CHILDREN RESCUED IN SWAMP

PITTSFIELD, May 23.—Mrs. Mary Crossin of Dalton and her 8-year-old son and 6-year-old daughter were rescued late last night with difficulty by police from the treacherous Burbank swamp, into which they had wandered in search of a short cut to the home of a friend.

Officers were obliged to fashion an improvised raft from a burn door to reach the exhausted woman, who was struggling aimlessly about in the deep mud, carrying her two children. The swamp is impenetrable, except in winter, when it is frozen.

Coupled with the announcement was an assertion by Mr. Gompers that "confession that the 'open shop' campaign has proved a failure was made public May 16 at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers held in New York."

MANY KILLED IN OUTBREAK

British Troops Rush to Alexandria, Egypt, to Quell Disorders

Natives Attack Europeans Following Killing of Native By a Greek

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Five Europeans were killed and 72 wounded in rioting here last night, and this morning it was announced today. The police casualties were not given out.

British troops have arrived and taken charge of the town. It is rumored that the outbreak began with the killing of a native by a Greek, which led to attacks by natives and students on Greeks and other Europeans.

Amidst the night, smashed windows for hours and this morning all business establishments are closed. Before the arrival of the soldiers early today, Europeans had gathered at the government offices, demanding protection or permission to protect themselves. They greeted the troops with great enthusiasm.

Many Dead in Streets
A despatch from Cairo to the Exchange Telegraph Co., reports many dead lying in the streets of Alexandria. One report states that two Europeans were killed with petrol and burned in the streets. Last evening some benzine stores near the Alexandria docks were ransacked.

A band of 1500 armed Bedouins, says the Cairo message, is advancing on Ramleh, five miles northeast of Alexandria, "to participate in a general revolution, which but presence to the British may succeed." Many telephone lines have been cut. Cairo, adds the message, is in an excited state, but no disorders have developed there.

"Flu" Left Them With Bad Cough But Father John's Medicine Helped Them To Get Rid of It

"We have seven in our family," said Mr. E. D. Willard, "and after we had the flu we were all left with coughs and our lungs were very weak. We took Father John's Medicine and found that it did us the world of good. And we have taken it ever since. My children have gained in weight and we have got rid of the coughs. I believe that Father John's Medicine has put us on our feet and you can judge for yourself by looking at the most healthy family in Albany. CAMP FIRE MAGIC

List to the Call of Mother Nature

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING
You're feeling the lure of it. Your eyes a dozen times a day seek the hazy lines toward the west. The heart of you goes out to those paths where, in spring, you gathered apple blossoms and dogwood and which you know are bordered now by cool, green recesses, designed by Mother Nature for camp fires and little groups of congenial people.

Then take your week, your day or even your half-day and know the joy, without which no summer is complete—the magic of camp fire.

Automobiles are all right, or the camping party, but there is something about setting off the interurban car and threading your way through the woodlands, that tires and cushions cannot give.

Cooking is sometimes the hub of the camper. But it should not be for healthful and tempting foods and life in the open belongs together. Baked potatoes are the old standby. And to make sure that you get them out of the fire before they are burned and without burning your hands, take along some wire with one sharp end and string your potatoes on it. Bury them in the coals and ashes, but be sure that the ends of the wire are free of the flame so you can lift the string of potatoes out when baked.

Baking From their dressing of leaves you'll almost believe that corn-meal fish cakes were an invention of Mother Eve. There's an air of the primitive about them. Scald a quart of cornmeal, add to it a teaspoon of salt and a tablespoon of melted fat and cold water enough to make a soft dough. Mold into flat round cakes, wrap them in grape or maple leaves and lay on hot coals to bake. When finished strip off the leaves and eat hot, with butter.

A delicious way to prepare fresh fish on a camping trip is to cook it on a plank. The plank should be two or three feet long, two or three inches thick and wider than the widest fish. It should be propped up in front of a bed of coals and heated well. The cleaned fish, split down the back, should be opened and tucked to the plank, skin side down. During the cooking process it should be basted frequently with any kind of basting substance on hand. When the fish flakes if tried with a fork, take it away from the coals, pluck and all, butter it, season it and serve on the plank.

For Slicing To slice hard boiled eggs sharply beat your knife in hot water and do not dry it before you slash it quickly through the egg.

Germans Rout Insurgents

LONDON, May 23.—Germans Saturday drove the Polish insurgents in Silesia back toward Gross-Strehlitz for a distance of five miles, says a despatch to the London Times from Oppeln.

The Times correspondent declares there is every sign that the Germans have the resources of the regular army at their disposal.

He adds that the Germans have been making preparations for the past fortnight and that indications point to a determined effort on their part to recover possession of Upper Silesia from the Poles.

The movement is regarded by the Times correspondent as far more serious than the chief executive would participate in ceremonies to honor the more than 5000 war dead whose bodies are at Hoboken.

Arrangements for this event were made by wireless by the American Legion as the Mayflower steamed along the coast between Washington and New York. Soon after guns of the destroyer fleet anchored in the Hudson river boomed a welcome to the president, bells throughout the city tolled in honor of the fallen heroes. All flags were at half-mast.

P. W. Galbraith, national commander of the Legion, awaited the arrival of the president with automobiles to take the party to 23rd street, and embark upon a ferry for the army pier in Hoboken. Upon his return from the president, he will go to the Hotel Astor, where he will address the Academy of Political Science at 1 o'clock. From there he will go to Brooklyn, to review the 23rd infantry regiment at its armory. He will deliver a brief address there and return to the Hotel Commodore to be surrounded by a boys' band of 500 pieces. A reception will be held by the president and Vice President Coolidge at the hotel between 7 and 8 o'clock and then New York's distinguished guest will deliver his main address of the day at a banquet celebrating the 15th anniversary of the New York Commercial. The vice-president will also speak at this time.

The presidential party will return to the Mayflower immediately after the banquet and the little craft will put out to sea again, headed for Washington.

In the party aboard the Mayflower are Mrs. Harding, Secretary and Mrs. Weeks, Secretary Felt, Senator and Mrs. Knox, Senator and Mrs. New, Senator Calder, Senator Edge, Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, physician to the president; George B. Christian, secretary to the president, and Carmel Thompson of Cleveland.

Former President Menocal of Cuba, who arrived here yesterday, will stand beside President Harding at the review of troops in Brooklyn.

WILL HAVE TO GIVE UP HER POSITION

Miss Mary Lynch, who has been a nurse in the local health department for the past several years, will have to give up her position, according to notification which has been received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson from the civil service commission. Miss Lynch was appointed provisionally until a list of eligibles should become available and inasmuch as she is not a citizen of this country, her name has not been placed on the eligible list. She has taken out her first papers and served as a United States army nurse during the world war, but these facts have not had any influence on the commission in its action in disqualifying her.

The commission has forwarded Mayor Thompson a list of eligibles from which he is to make his appointment of Miss Lynch's successor. The list follows:

Margaret M. Courtney, 22 Ash st. Alice I. Gorman, 60 Walker st. Grace M. Carroll, 55 Claire st. Margaret V. Craig, 55 Barter st. Mabel B. Greene, 17 Ash st.

WILL HAVE TO GIVE UP HER POSITION

Miss Mary Lynch, who has been a nurse in the local health department for the past several years, will have to give up her position, according to notification which has been received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson from the civil service commission. Miss Lynch was appointed provisionally until a list of eligibles should become available and inasmuch as she is not a citizen of this country, her name has not been placed on the eligible list. She has taken out her first papers and served as a United States army nurse during the world war, but these facts have not had any influence on the commission in its action in disqualifying her.

The commission has forwarded Mayor Thompson a list of eligibles from which he is to make his appointment of Miss Lynch's successor. The list follows:

Margaret M. Courtney, 22 Ash st. Alice I. Gorman, 60 Walker st. Grace M. Carroll, 55 Claire st. Margaret V. Craig, 55 Barter st. Mabel B. Greene, 17 Ash st.

Carpenter speaks only a few English words. But he understands money when it talks.

Much interest is being shown in the recitals to be given by the pupils of Ella Kelly Toye next Wednesday and Friday evenings in Colonial hall.

A slight blaze in one of the departments of the J. C. Ayer Co. in Middle street shortly after 11 o'clock last evening, was responsible for a still alarm. At 10:55 o'clock this morning a telephone alarm was sent in for a chimney fire at 170 Hollywood avenue.

Rev. N. W. Matthews, pastor of the Graham Street P. M. church delivered the baccalaureate sermon last night to the nurses' class of 11 members, who will graduate at the Lowell General hospital next Wednesday, the service being held at the hospital. The program of the evening included selections by the Glee club and double quartet of the hospital as well as community singing. Benediction brought the program to a close.

DIDN'T HAVE THE MONEY WITH HIM

Michelo Roberto, many times in court to report his payments to his wife and family, appeared this morning on the old charge of assault and battery which has been continued many times. A new charge of non-support was also preferred, as the result of his wife's statement that he did not give her the regular monthly sum of $100 agreed upon for the support of herself and the seven children of the couple.

"I offered her $25 and she refused it," protested Roberto. He was then instructed to give it to her for her maintenance until the hearing of the case May 31. "I haven't got it now," he declared. "Well, then, go to jail," observed His Honor, and he was held in $100 bonds for a week's continuance. He furnished surety.

PARKS WELL PATRONIZED

The various parks and commons of the city were crowded to capacity yesterday, because of the warm weather. The first real hot spell of the season sent thousands of men, women and children to the open spaces in search of relief from the oppressive humidity. Supt. John W. Kieran of the park department, says that he has rarely seen so large a crowd in Fort Hill park than was there yesterday. The zoo on the slope of the hill entertained a record number of visitors.

OUTDOOR MOVIE SEASON

July 12 has been set as the date for the opening of the outdoor movie season in Lowell. Beginning on that date and continuing for eight weeks, movies will be shown three nights each week, under the auspices of the park department. The North and South commons will each have one show every week and the third evening's performance will be held on various other parts of the city. The films are to be supplied by Warner Bros. of the Merrimack Square theatre.

Commerce Chamber's Drive

Interest in the effort to secure the adoption of contract work on the streets has been expected. The announcement was made several days ago that a special drive would be made to line up the new citizenesses in favor of the proposition. Nearly a third of the male members of the chamber have signified a willingness to buckle on their armor and engage in the warfare for names, while only about ten per cent. of the female members have thus far come forward to offer their assistance.

Although the opinion is commonly expressed that the chamber will have little difficulty in getting the 3000 signatures required to place its petition before the municipal council, it is known that some of the persons who have been asked to sign have shown a reluctance to do so on the ground that should the lists of signers be given publicly the presence of their names might embarrass them in a business or professional way.

Many Are Interested

There is considerable interest, evidently, to know whether the lists will be made public. There is apparently no provision in the city charter authorizing or forbidding their being given publication. An attorney familiar with municipal law stated today that as next of the public records they would be accessible to the public.

It has been announced that it is planned to have representatives of the chamber of commerce present when the lists are canvassed by the election commissioners. If they are permitted to be present, it is possible that representatives of the opponents of the proposition may also have men present to get a line on the names of the persons who have an ambition to have contract work introduced on the streets. It is thought that if either, or both of these parties are permitted to have access to the lists after they are placed in the city clerk's hands, they would also be open to inspection of the general public.

Consider the Phraseology

Opponents of the order that the chamber of commerce is anxious to have adopted by the municipal council, or the people, were busy this morning in going carefully over the phraseology of the petition that is being circulated.

It was claimed by some who examined the petition that its adoption would practically result in placing the "gone out of business" call and see the center around the corner sign on the door of the street department. The order provides that no "construction" or "reconstruction" of streets or sidewalks, either of "stone, block, brick, macadam or concrete or other permanent pavement of similar lasting character" shall be done except by contractors.

The inclusion of the word "reconstruction" in the order, it is claimed, would forbid the doing of any work on the highways, except possibly repairs of the most transient nature, otherwise than by contract. It was pointed out today that, if this construction should hold, the present force of street workers would largely have to look for other jobs.

New Charterites Apprehensive

Some of the friends of the new charter are said to look with little favor on the order that it is proposed to ask the municipal council to adopt. It is pointed out that under the revised charter a board of public works to have control of street construction is provided for. With the proposed order in effect, it is claimed, the duties of such a board would be limited, inasmuch as the actual construction of streets is concerned, to drawing up contracts and seeing that they were carried out. It is also being pointed out that once the proposed order is turned around and sidewalk construction over to the private contractors has been adopted it must remain effective until it is submitted to the voters and repealed by them.

The Gas-Workers' Petition

The initiative petition of the striking Gas Light company workers asking for the establishment of a gas plant came to for serious consideration by business men this morning. It was pointed out that without organized labor solidly behind the move there was at least a possibility of its being approved by the citizens. Once approved by the voters, it was stated, there would be no other alternative except for the city to apply to the legislature for the right to borrow money outside of the debt limit and go ahead with the establishment of the plant. It was said that it would be improbable that the legislature would take a stand in opposition to this expressed will of the people and refuse to sanction a loan. The striking workers held a meeting this afternoon in Machinists hall, 212 Merrimack street, at which encouraging reports were received regarding the success that is attending the drive for signatures to the initiative petition, and plans were discussed for getting the matter before the municipal council.
